"We are close to landing an industrial laundry," he said.

structed on leased railroad right-of-way.

In answer to a question he said that Anchor Toy acted on an option of its lease in deciding to buy from the city for $42,000 its manufacturing building.

Huff was introduced by Dr. Frank Sisson.

Emily Bruce entertained as a vocalist-guitarist and played the piano. Charles Green led the club singing.

John Duncan was a guest of Lennie Whitworth, Dick Smith, a guest of President Fred Koch and Bill O'Guinn, a guest of Frank Harp.

Fate of 40 Members Of Sunken Ship's Crew Not Known

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — A Japanese merchant ship was reported today to have rescued at least two of the 42 crewmen who leaped into the icy waters of the North Pacific when their ship, the Panoean Faith, sank suddenly Monday.

The fate of the 40 other men was not known. There were fears they could not survive long in the cold, storm-tossed waters.

The Coast Guard said reports from the merchant ship Igaharu Maru at the search scene 870 miles southwest of Kodiak, Alaska, told of the dramatic rescue of Gordon L. Campbell, Oakland, Calif., and Lewis E. Gray Jr., Houston, Texas.

In New York, the ship's owners said they were told that John F. Ogles of Alexandria, Va., captain of the sunken vessel, also was rescued, but the Coast Guard could not confirm this.

Viet Missile Compound Bombed for First Time

SAIGON (AP) — American men, the headquarters said, Navy planes today attacked and left burning a sprawling military compound near Haiphong where Russian missiles and helicopter are uncrated and assembled.

It was likely that Soviet technicians work in the base, which previously was on the Pentagon's restricted target list.

U. S. headquarters said all-weather intruder jets hit the base before dawn Monday and returned for a second predawn strike Tuesday. Pilots reported that flames and secondary explosions lighted the night sky.

Heavy new strikes on North and other buildings. It is about Vietnam and the loss of an MIG-17 in a dogfight was paralleled by sharp ground fighting between the two sides.

American troops north to meet the threat of renewed North Vietnamese attacks below the demilitarized zone.

U. S. Command also announced that U. S. Air Force C-130 transport with the crew of five and 18 passengers has been missing between Da Nang and Hue since Sunday. All 18 passengers are believed to be American service-aircraft in the world, capable of carrying 120 troops or transporting a 40-foot SAM missile which Russia supplies for the North Vietnamese anti-aircraft defense.

Although bad weather over parts of the North cut missions to a below-normal 94 on Monday, the air planners poured in strikes heavily where the weather permitted and struck far above the Hanoi-Haiphong area.

Air Force strikes on the two rail lines from Hanoi to Red China brought out harassing flights of MIGs, the most advanced attack planes in the North Vietnamese armory.

One flight of MIGs bored in on the northeast of Hanoi. The MIGs were shot down one Thunderchief and the pilot was missing. No further details of the dogfight were announced by the Air Force.

The Thunderchief was the 695th U. S. combat plane lost over the North and the 26th shot down by MIG Americans pilots credited with 85 MIG kills and another 12 probables.

Insurance Tax Yields $75,732

Judge Set Hearing In Statutory Rape

Preliminary hearing for Clifford Russell Jr., 816 Wayne, charged with statutory rape of a 14 year old Chaffee girl was set for next Tuesday in magistrate court.

Judge M. E. Montgomery presided. Prosecuting Attorney Fielding Potashnick represented the state in cases heard.

An arson charge against Jack Powell, Sikeston, in connection with the burning of a frame house owned by Carl Dye near Crowder was dismissed today.

The charge will be refiled in magistrate court later. Andy Hopper, Sikeston, also charged with arson in connection with the same incident, waived preliminary hearing in magistrate court last week and will appear for arraignment and trial setting Thursday in circuit court. Both men also face arson charges in New Madrid county.

Hawood William Crumpecker, Morehouse, charged with exceeding the speed limit, was fined $15 and costs.

Lawrence R. Fair, 209 Westgate, charged with driving while intoxicated, was fined $50 and costs and his driver's license was revoked.

Larry Wayne Allmon, Sikeston, charged with careless and imprudent driving, was fined $10 and costs.

Henry Ransburgh, New Madrid, charged with exceeding the speed limit, was fined $10 and costs.

The Coast Guard said it had no information as to what had caused the 459-foot ship to take on water.

Cpl. Michael Grimes Killed in Vietnam

EAST PRAIRIE -- Corporal Michael Grimes, 18, was killed in Vietnam Saturday while on guard duty. He enlisted in the army as a paratrooper June 28 following graduation from high school.

He was born Nov. 6, 1948, in Cairo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Elgie Grimes.

He was a member of the Baptist church in Bridgeton.

Besides his parents he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Wil-

Ham Gregory, route two, and Miss Pamela Raye Grimes, East Prairie; three brothers, Larry Grimes, St. Louis, Jerry David Grimes, Peyton, Colo., and Danny Gene Grimes, Sparta, Ill.

His paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Grimes, and his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Woods, all of East Prairie.

His body will be returned to the Shelby Funeral Home.

Frost Alert Out Tonight

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Another cold blast is taking over Missouri.

The weatherman issued frost or freeze warnings for the entire state after a night in which the temperatures dipped to the low 40s and mid and high 30s.

Springfield was coldest with a low of 36.

Lows Wednesday morning will be mostly in the 30s with the mercury expected to dip to near 27 in the northwest.

Manned Apollo Plane Lands In Bean Field

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A moon program official at the Manned Spacecraft Center says "intricate details" piled up and forced a newly announced delay in launch date for the first manned Apollo flight.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Office of Manned Spaceflight said Monday in Washington that a single car accident Monday at 6:45 p.m. two and one-half miles north of Poplar Bluff.

Thomas Thompson, 20, was driving a 1965 panel Volkswagen truck when he ran off the highway and struck a fence.

He received cuts on his scalp and was treated at the Poplar Bluff hospital.

U.S. Gadgets, Vastness Impress British Visitor at Morehouse

MOREHOUSE -- Mrs. Irene King of London, England, is spending a month with her son-in-law, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hinson.

The former lady-in-waiting, whose husband was a cousin of Lord Forbes-Sempill, 80, a member of the British House of Lords, has led an eventful life. Since her divorce seven years ago from her husband, Leonard Forbes, owner of a large truck transportation system, she has been in charge of food service at the Criterion Hotel in Piccadilly Circus.

"I loved to oversee food preparation and catering service, all over London, she exclaimed. Whether it was for nobility or for a large party, it made no difference, I delighted to take charge of all arrangements."

Mrs. King was born in London, daughter of Frank King, a police inspector, and Mrs. King.

She is opposed to the present Labor government, has voted for Labor and Conservative parties but prefers the latter.

"The Labor government," she said, "made many promises, and pegged wages, but at the same time prices have gone up."

Mrs. King said that on this, her first trip to America she was "greatly amazed at the vastness from New York to St. Louis."

"Your homes in America are so different, mostly all long, modern homes, and mostly one-story. My home is relatively new, and was built in 1920, and is all brick and several stories high. I have all modern appliances, including a refrigerator and washing machine. Seldom do you find a deep freeze in any homes."

"Ah yes, your air conditioners, we have few if any in the homes. It wasn't until I saw the one operate in the home of my daughter in Morehouse that I knew what they were. I had always thought they were a television set placed in a window with a cover on it."

On youth she said that "I have met Twiggy several times, and she is very sweet, but uneducated. I see no difference in the Beatles and the American boys. They all have more money to spend and do what they want to."

MRS. IRENE King of London, England is a Morehouse visitor.

Relief Perpetuated for Palestine Refugees

WASHINGTON -- A group of congressmen headed by Rep. Paul Jones, Kennett, Mo., Democrat, as chairman, suggest that the oil-rich Arab nations among others should bear a greater proportion of supporting refugees within their own nations.

The group, the subcommittee on foreign agricultural operation of the house committee on agriculture, conducted an on-the-spot investigation of the refugee situation after the June war between Israel and Arab countries.

They visited Palestine refugee camps located in areas which fell under jurisdiction of the Israel government.

"The United States participation in feeding the refugees has amounted to $387 million since 1948 with little indication that our contributions were helping to improve the situation," Jones reported to Congressman W. R. Poage, chairman of the house agriculture committee.

"United Nations Relief Works Agency has been the only means of existence for these refugees for some 20 years," the committee reported. "From an administrative standpoint, UNRWA may perform efficiently but the efforts have not solved the problem and, in fact, have perpetuated it."

The committee found the refugees were fed a subsistence diet with no opportunities to work or to improve their living standard or to get off relief, which are purchased by UNRWA in the open market, are placed side by side with ours," the committee reported. "Obviously, this leads the refugees to believe that Cuba is contributing to their relief along with the United States."

bold red letters marked "Cuba." "Cuba does not contribute to the relief of these refugees, yet their products which are purchased by UNRWA in the open market, are placed side by side with ours," the committee reported. "Obviously, this leads the refugees to believe that Cuba is contributing to their relief along with the United States."

Artificial Sweeteners Rated Safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration, responding to inquiries it said came from some consumers says there is no scientific evidence to show widely used artificial sweeteners are a hazard to health.

However, the FDA said studies of the chemicals are continuing in the United States and abroad.

"If at any time the scientific evidence shows some basis for restricting the use of artificial sweeteners, the FDA has the authority" to take action the agency said.

Two Charged In Burglary

NEW MADRID -- New Madrid county authorities have issued a warrant for the arrest of Tommy Wright, 18, and Franklin Malloy, 18, both of St. Louis, charged with burglary and larceny, following the break-in of the Hammock Grocery in Canolou Sept. 22.

The two youths were apprehended by Franklin county authorities, and are held in the county jail at Troy, charged with 15 counts of burglary and larceny in that county.

Both formerly lived in Canolou. They are charged with taking merchandise valued at $400, of which $300 worth has been recovered by Franklin county authorities.

Johnson Calls For End to Space Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson made a new appeal to the Soviet Union today to abandon "competitive space-ship" and join with the United States in a cooperative effort to explore the heavens.

Johnson renewed his offer of collaboration after signing a proclamation declaring formally in effect the international treaty barring nuclear weapons and military bases from outer space.

The President said: "The first decade of the space age has witnessed a kind of contest. We have been engaging in competitive spacemanship. We have accomplished much, but we have also wasted much energy and resources in duplicated or overlapping effort."

"The next decade should increasingly become a partnership—not only between the Soviet Union and America, but among all nations under the sun and stars," he added.

The treaty, now ratified by the United States and 12 other nations, including the Soviet Union and Great Britain, is considered a milestone in efforts to insure the peaceful uses of nuclear power in the world.

It prohibits any nation from claiming sovereignty in space or using celestial bodies such as the moon and planets for military bases. It also calls for the reporting of space exploration and research for the benefit of all mankind.

Hearnes Hands Press Reins to Ex-Boothel Man

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes announced Monday appointment of Jerry L. Bryan, 27, formerly news director for Jefferson City radio station KLIK, as press secretary. Bryan will succeed Will W. Davis, who has resigned effective Oct. 13.

Bryan, formerly of Poplar Bluff, is the first broadcaster to be appointed press secretary to the governor.

Davis, who has been press secretary since Hearnes took office in 1965, is expected to be appointed director of the new Missouri Tourism Commission created by the legislature earlier this year. The tourism law goes into effect Oct. 13.

$1,500 in Items Taken in Theft

Two Scott county break-ins last night were investigated by Sheriff John Dennis and Deputies Jack Stewart and Eddie Michael.

The Ready Mix Concrete company in Scott City was broken into.

Office machines were taken, valued at $1,500, from the Hale Brothers Auction Company, owned by Bob and Dave Hale, on highway 60, east of Miner. Entrance was gained by breaking a west window. Taken were two adding machines, a postage machine, a copying machine and a motorcycle helmet.

The thief was believed to have had help, according to Deputy Jack Stewart, in hoisting the machines over a high fence that surrounds the grounds.

Truman Says Attlee Was Close Ally

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman issued this statement Monday on the death in London Sunday of Lord Clement Attlee: "Lord Attlee and I first met at Potsdam when he became prime minister. He and I worked in close harmony in many of the critical problems of reconstruction and redirection of our joint efforts toward building a world at peace. He left his mark on his times and will be accorded an enduring place in the history of this century."

Grant to Be Used for Highway Safety Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $52,000 federal highway administration grant to the Missouri Department was announced Monday by Missouri senators.

The funds will be matched by the state and used for administrative and planning under the highway safety act.

Oliver Leaves Without Scent

Oliver, the skunk, left his basement quarters in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Lacy, 926 N. Kingshighway, after being under the family's care five days.

The animal showed its appreciation for having been fed and sheltered five days by leaving through an open door without a single scent.

Oliver apparently enjoyed the quiet hospitality of the Lacy family.

As Mrs. Lacy put it: "Oliver was a very nice skunk."

Two persons were admitted to the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital Monday.

James E. Russell of East Prairie fell injuring neck and head. F. Nickens of Sikeston caught foot in bicycle spoke.

Hearnes Accuses Congress of Buck Passing

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said today it looks to him as though Congress is passing the buck to the President and the President is putting the squeeze on Congress in the current balanced budget quarrel.

"Our highway fund is caught in the middle," the outspoken Missouri governor said in a letter to Alan S. Boyd, secretary of transportation.

Boyd had advised governors Monday that because of congressional demands for reduced federal spending it might be necessary to put new and lower ceilings on highway allotments.

Hearnes said he thought it was unfortunate that current highway planning and construction was caught in the fiscal disagreement between President Johnson and some members of Congress.

"It is my opinion that the President should submit a balanced budget," Hearnes said, "and if Congress feels that it is not balanced, either with or without a tax increase, then Congress should take it upon itself to pass only those appropriations it feels vital and necessary."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
NEWSPAPERS GET THINGS DONE

Humility and pride -- there's reason for both during National Newspaper Week now in progress. The late Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky made this evident back in 1948 when he was a candidate for vice president as Harry Truman's running mate.

He arrived in a Montana city just before the luncheon meeting where he was to make a major campaign speech.

The local reporter learned with dismay that Senator Barkley would speak from notes rather than prepared copy.

"We're an afternoon paper," he told the Kentuckian, "and you'll finish your talk just before we go to press. There won't be time to write the story and give it good play. Could you give me the main points now?"

He did, but hundreds of people were kept waiting. The reporter was embarrassed, and said so. "Don't apologize to me," said Senator Barkley. "I'm here to get publicity for Harry Truman as a candidate for president, myself as his running mate, and those on the ticket who are running for state and local offices."

"You and your newspaper can give it to us. So I do you no favor when I take time to give this information. You are doing me, my associates and party the favor. I am the one who should be grateful."

Which was true, but how many in his position would have said it?

A newspaper's ability to decide how and what and how much it will or will not report gives it tremendous power.

But good newspapermen do not regard this as reason to beat their chests and shout of their might as did Tarzan of the Apes.

They regard it instead as reason to be humble, using that power and ability to get things done in community and public service. . . using it to help mankind.

They regard it too as an obligation to report the news fully and fairly with decency, judgment and kindness.

This -- National Newspaper Week -- is a time when newspapers and newspaper men and women repledge themselves to this task.

A Sikeston man reported about his small nephew who wrote a letter to Santa Claus telling him he wanted his bicycle fixed and his violin broken.

Heard at the coffee table:
"A man may fall several times but he isn't a failure until he starts saying someone pushed him."

He is not a good talker; but everybody likes to talk with him, because he learns to like people by being a good listener.

"The states as innovators and initiators" is the keynote of the 20th annual National Legislative Conference which opened Wednesday in San Antonio.

The choice of topic seems odd because innovation has not often been the long suit of the states. A report issued by the Committee for Economic Development blunted stated why:

"Some state governments meet new needs relatively well but most do not."

There are two reasons why the states have been unable to keep up with changing social and economic demands.

First, many of today's problems transcend state boundaries and require regional solutions. Smoke abatement in the Greater St. Louis area, involving both Missouri and Illinois, is a prime example -- familiar to all Southeast Missouri and Southern Illinois residents.

Second, most state governments are poorly organized to fulfill their growing responsibilities and to perform functions clearly within their province. The awkward division of authority between St. Louis and St. Louis county is an example of this.

Progress toward reform of state constitutions and governmental machinery has been glacial. At least 18 states will submit proposed constitutional revisions to the voters this year and next but few of the proposals are major.

Two exceptions are Maryland and New York both of which are in the process of rewriting their constitutions.

Although Missouri has many problems its constitutional structure is not outmoded.

The search for improvement should continue. Changes are coming fast and it would be most heartening if communities, counties, larger regions within the state and Missouri itself could provide a structure adequate to permit progress.

Missourians as well as residents of other states sometimes cling too much to tradition and to use the legislative conference word are too unwilling to innovate.

NOTICE TACKLED UP ON THE DOOR OF A COUNTRY STORE IN SHANNON COUNTY.

"This store does not sell goods on Sunday and -- little through the week."

The Colonel said:
"If there are only a few boys and a great many girls at a party, no chaperone is needed."

A friend dies every day. The pessimist acquires age himself.

Everyone learns how to live with this as he does with all other of life's experiences.

The pessimist is discouraged. He's sure he'll be next.

The optimist is encouraged because he is still among the living. The devout give their thanks in prayer.

One of my friends was a quiet, jolly person, who enjoyed her neighbors and friends in a small Bootheel community. She was a gentle soul. A religious person, she appreciated visits by ministers and contributed to her own church, other churches and the Billy Graham crusade. There was a color picture of Graham in a prominent place in her living room. Her laugh was contagious.

Our own response to her departure involved a small contribution in her memory to a church whose minister befriended her in old age. We might have done more while she could have enjoyed it.

Flowers and contributions are fine. A funeral would be drab without flowers and it is appropriate and thoughtful to make a contribution to a person's church, to one of his charities or contribute a memorial book compatible with his interests to a public or church library.

When a friend dies the memory of his good deeds rush through the mind like a torrent. Unfortunately this mental process too often does not percolate so readily while he is alive.

Yes, it is fine to remember the dead but too many of us do too little for friends, who have grown old.

Often they are lonely. Their lives have grown bleak, barren and uninteresting.

How much better it is to concentrate on trying to make them happier while they are alive by writing or visiting them often, taking them out to dine, buying them little gifts and giving of ourselves rather than merely waiting to write a check after they die.

No old man ever married a young woman without making a mistake.

John Burroughs said: "I still find each day too short for all the thoughts I want to think, all the walks I want to take, all the books I want to read, and all the friends I want to see. The longer I live the more my mind dwells upon the beauty and wonder of the world."

October makes us realize so many things and perhaps this is because we have seen so many Octobers come and go. To those of us who have lived our three score and ten, with a few years added, October can be likened to our later years. We came to know that Mother Nature, as God created her, is constant and doesn't change, but that people do. From simple living we have developed into a specialized civilization, and it is very difficult, at times, to understand that it is all about. Even the old family doctor is disappearing from the scene and today one specialist tells us what other specialist to see.

It is right that all men should be considered equal insofar as human dignity is concerned, but there it ends. All men are not created equal and it is wishful thinking to assume that they ever will be. Of the millions of people who have and now do live on this earth, no two were, or are, alike, even to the number of hairs on their heads. The why of this we do not understand and perhaps we never shall. God, in His wisdom, made it so. He created white, black, brown and red men and all were and are born with certain qualities.

In our own beloved America, we believe that every man should have the chance to go as far as his own capabilities will carry him, and in this respect we like the following by Thomas Wolfe: "So then, to every man his chance - To every man regardless of his birth, his shining golden opportunity. To every man the right to live, to work, to be himself, and to become whatever thing his manhood and vision can combine to make him. This, seeker, is the promise of America."

We wish it were possible that doles from our government could make all Americans what they would like to be, but we all know this can never be so. On the contrary, it tends to rob men of their initiative, and they cease trying to help themselves. It takes from those who work the fruits of their labor, and this creates resentment. Our country was built by work and sacrifice - by men of vision who dared to carry out their dreams. A benevolent and centralized government can never replace the initiative and will to work of its citizens, and the philosophy that it can will destroy our country if continued.

Private industry keeps our country going and there is no substitute for it. Whether the owner of just a small store, our giant industries, or those who labor on the land to provide our food - they are the ones who keep the wheels turning. If they are ever destroyed by unjust restrictions by our government - then it will be too bad for all of us.

And so it's October and Autumn will be just as beautiful as ever because Mother Nature was created by God. Leaves that were fresh and green in spring will turn to browns and reds and yellows. This is Mother Nature's way of putting plant life to sleep for its winter nap.

And as giant oaks from acorns grow, so people grow from babes in swaddling clothes. As the twig is bent, so grows the oak, and people grow from living, learning and loving.

It takes a lot of doing
As we pass through this life,
But there is lots of happiness
Along with all the strife.

A Sikeston woman insisted that furniture in every room must match. When her husband died, she had the casket put into the dining room because it matched the furniture.

Ninety-eight persons lost their lives while walking on Missouri streets and highways during the first eight months of the year, it was reported by the State Highway Patrol. This compares to 103 pedestrian deaths in the same period last year.

Through August of this year, 54 persons lost their lives while walking in urban traffic and 44 pedestrians died in rural traffic. The months of March, May and August each recorded 15 pedestrian deaths. June accounted for 13; January had 12 persons killed while walking; April 10; and February and July both claimed 9 pedestrian deaths in Missouri.

"The deaths of many of these pedestrians were as unnecessary as they were unexpected," declared Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Patrol Superintendent. "Probably the drivers responsible, or the pedestrians responsible for their own deaths, could be accused of only carelessness. But what a terrible thing it is to be run down on a street or highway because someone was careless. A little more careful walking and driving by the individuals involved could have prevented many of these deaths."

Colonel Hockaday emphasized

that the next three months may be a tragic time for pedestrians. The Missouri pedestrian traffic toll for the last three months of 1966 was 46 -- an average of 15 a month.

"More hours of darkness and the many holiday festivities ahead make the last three months of the year particularly hazardous time for those who walk the streets and highways," he noted. "I urge both drivers and pedestrians to be extra watchful for each other during this period."

The Patrol Superintendent reminded pedestrians to look both ways before crossing a street, and to cross only at corners. He also pointed out that when walking at night, it is best to wear something light colored that will show up in a vehicle's headlights.

Since the early 1930's when public spending in the name of "social good" got mixed up and tainted with vote-buying for perpetual office-holding, there has been a lot of debate about federal spending programs.

Clearly, there might as well never have been a discussion about even one of them. This is proven by the fact that the national debt has become so large and frightening, one has to shove the specter of it out of his mind or go out of his mind.

Because Americans could tolerate this terrible thing called national debt -- and the side effect of the dizzying, increasing interest on it ($12 billion a year) -- they could also tolerate a toxic apathy toward the price of government - taxes, both hidden and open.

We knew then, and know now, that a tax is a collection to finance government; that an open tax is something we know we are paying when we pay it, such as income tax, sales taxes, property taxes. But only a few government bureaucrats and a handful of other Americans are fully cognizant of hidden taxes and their impact on the economy.

Let's look at some examples of hidden taxes. Financing of the social security program is one example of hidden tax. Social security payments are provided from social security taxes collected from two sources: the employee and his employer. The tax the employee pays is an apentax, clearly recorded on each paycheck. However, the tax paid by the employer constitutes a hidden tax. The employer-paid social security tax is a part of the cost of hiring each employee. It must be included in the estimate of the expenses of the business and is reflected in the cost of the product which purchasers (taxpayers) must pay if they want to buy that product.

second payment comes directly from each consumer who buys a price-supported product, since the price he has to pay because of the supports is much higher than it would otherwise be.

A rise in the price of lettuce and fruit was inevitable, thanks to the policy of barring experienced, willing and eager Mexican farm labor from California farms and the Southwest. Lettuce went up from 19 to 39 cents a head, strawberries from 35 to 49 cents a pint. The extra cost was a hidden tax which consumers paid for the "social rehabilitation" experiment to make productive farm laborers out of jobless city bums, beatniks and teenagers. It was a noble but fruitless experiment which cost was measured by the extra cash the consumer shelled out for lettuce and strawberries.

So, it becomes plain that ignorance about government can be very expensive. Too often, the price is cash and liberty. Comes the revolution, there might not even be any strawberries.

NEW FORMULA
COUNTS CROWDS
The quadrennial presidential election campaigns are not only a time for inflated speeches. They also herald a return of that phenomenon known as inflated crowd estimating -- or deflated estimating, depending upon which party you listen to.

Now a new development may throw some honesty into the latter preoccupation of politicians.

Herbert Jacobs, a lecturer in journalism at the University of California, has devised what he calls "Jacobs' crowd formula."

The formula calls for walking off the length and width of a gathering, then adding the two figures. If the crowd is densely packed, this is multiplied by 10; if loosely assembled, by seven.

The average person occupies from six to eight square feet in most crowds, he says. For sit-ins, the figure is 6.7 square feet.

Jacobs reportedly perfected his formula by studying a student strike rally at the university, which various observers estimated as containing from 5,000 to 10,000 participants. Jacobs actually counted heads in an enlarged photo and came up with 2,804.

WORD COMMUNISM
CONFERENCE

Although no date has yet been set, strong indications have been given that a new "summit meeting" of Soviet bloc leaders will be held in Moscow some time in early 1968.

Prominent communists, including Mongolian as well as East European leaders, have been visiting the Russian capital in recent weeks. It is significant that such men as the secretary general of the British Communist Party have announced their agreement on the need for a new world conference.

The Hungarian party chief has been quoted in Pravda as saying that "the time has come for a new conference of communist parties."

This meeting, when held, will take place in the midst of today's intense quarrel between Soviet Russia and Communist China. But the free world can derive no comfort from this fact. Even when communists dispute among themselves, they are agreeing in their unceasing opposition to the United States and other free countries.

A previous conference of this kind led to a bitter and still-continuing drive on anti-communists, launched by a directive of international communist leadership. That drive has been particularly intense in the United States. Its success is shown by the fact that many Americans swallowed the party line and now believe that to be anti-communist is worse than being communist.

What next year's conference will bring forth, no one knows, but we can be sure of one thing: the communist conspirators will do all they can to cause trouble in the free world. As Senator Karl Mundt has wisely said, "The communists fish in troubled waters." H.L.H.

BRITISH BACKLASH
On September 18 Drew Pearson forecast that Harold Wilson would have serious trouble with his own labor party because the house of representatives had turned down a U.S. appropriation to buy 60 wooden minesweepers from England.

On October 4 the British labor party voted 2,752,000 to 2,633,000 against Wilson's policy of supporting the U.S. on Vietnam.

WASHINGTON - Members of the house judiciary committee aren't advertising it but almost every one of them has been pressured by the automobile insurance lobby to suppress a staff study of auto insurance.

Congress has been receiving more and more complaints regarding high-handed methods of automobile insurance companies which cut off insurance without justification, or raise insurance rates to exorbitant figures.

Accordingly, Chairman Manny Celler, D-N.Y., ordered the judiciary committee staff to make a study of insurance with a view to a major investigation.

This is the last thing the auto insurance industry wants; and two groups, the American Insurance Association and the National Association of Independent Insurers, have been conducting a vigorous lobby to suppress the report.

If they can't get the report banned outright, they're maneuvering wangle a galley proof from a friendly congressman as to try to get it rewritten before final publication.

The study is based on questionnaires sent to 20 of the leading automobile insurance companies. Apparently the industry doesn't want the answers of its own members made public.

AN LBJ POLL
A group of prominent New Yorkers, not satisfied with some of the current polls, financed a New York poll of their own on the question of how Lyndon Johnson would run against top Republican candidates. They found that he easily led Richard Nixon, Gov. Romney, Gov. Reagan and Sen. Percy. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller was not included in the poll because of his apparent determination not to run and the determination of so many Republicans not to nominate him over 40, Reagan rated 27 against Johnson's 57.

The poll was conducted by "Political Surveys and Analysis," of Princeton, N.J., during September, and was taken separately in New York State, New York City, and New York City, which the Democrats control. Johnson ran strong both upstate and in New York City, though stronger in the city.

Unlike some other polls which have lumped the Republican candidates together, this one was taken man for man, between Johnson and each individual Republican. The poll on Nixon vs. Johnson was especially significant. Inasmuch as many Republican leaders figure the ex-vice president will end up as the party's first choice, The Princeton poll showed Johnson running 60 to Nixon's 23 in New York City and 47 to Nixon's 38 in New York State.

The pollsters broke down the people polled by sex, religion, color and age. This showed that Nixon rated only 7 per cent among Jewish voters against Johnson's 81. He rated 14 per cent among Negro and Puerto Rican voters against Johnson's 71 per cent; and in the age brackets Johnson rated 53 per cent in the 21-39 year group against Nixon's 30 per cent, 54 against Nixon's 39 in the 40-year-and-over group.

Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois ran about the same as Nixon, 23 per cent in the New York City as against Johnson's 59; and in upstate New York, 32 per cent against Johnson's 45 per cent, and with non-whites -19 per cent.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California scored 23 per cent in New York City as against Johnson's 60; and 34 in upstate New York as against Johnson's 52 per cent.

Catholics preferred Johnson by 52 against Reagan 33; requiring cigaret manufacturers to print a tough warning to smokers. Vigorito would go further than the present mild admonition and would make the warning read: "Danger! Cigarette smoking is dangerous to health and may cause death from cancer and other diseases."

Among younger voters, Reagan rated 29 against Johnson's 55; and among voters over 40, Reagan rated 27 against Johnson's 55; and among voters

NEW YORK (AP) - Eileen Farrell, whose voice has been termed "a Niagara of song," is an operatic star who enjoys herself as much in her own kitchen as she does on stage.

"I've never served a packaged meal in my house," she said with warm pride.

"I do think I'm a good cook. I bake my own bread. I suppose I'm not a good cake maker, but I'm a heck of a good pie maker."

All summer, as she has done for years, Miss Farrell spent happy quiet days cooking for her husband and two children at their Maine retreat, sometimes herself catching the fish she prepared for their dinner.

But now the nation's concert halls are calling her. Between October and next June she will give some 30 concerts and perhaps make a few television appearances.

At 47 the dramatic soprano is still in superb voice -- and wants to stay that way. So she's lightening her schedule, despite the outcries and demurrers of program managers.

"You can only do what you're physically capable of," said Eileen, who likes for people to call her by her first name.

"I only want to do the roles that are to my advantage -- that lie in my voice range and are good for me."

Eileen has always been one to go at her own pace. She first studied music under her mother, a church organist. She sang over the Columbia Broadcasting System radio network for seven years before essaying operatic roles.

It wasn't until she was 40 that in 1960 she made her Metropolitan Opera debut in Gluck's "Alceste."

But her long and arduous preparation paid off. The audience rewarded her with an ovation and summoned her back for 22 curtain calls.

Having graduated from popular music herself, Eileen has a sympathetic feeling for today's young pop singers, some of whom she feels are ruining their voices by overstraining them as the result of poor vocal techniques.

"I'd like to teach them -- to be helpful to them," she said. "Ten years from now they won't be singing because their voices will be gone. But, with help, 10 years from now they could still be singing as well as ever."

"The voice isn't simply an instrument you carry around with you. You're dealing with something that is alive and has to be taken care of."

This is her advice to a youngster aspiring to an operatic career.

"Don't try it at all unless you are willing to do the hard work that are to my advantage -- that lie in my voice range and are good for me."

It may give you a marvelous break, but once you've achieved success the hardest work of all begins -- to stay successful."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

NEWSPAPERS GET THINGS DONE

Humility and pride -- there's reason for both during National Newspaper Week now in progress.

The late Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky made this evident back in 1948 when he was a candidate for vice president as Harry Truman's running mate.

He arrived in a Montana city just before the luncheon meeting where he was to make a major campaign speech.

The local reporter learned with dismay that Senator Barkley would speak from notes rather than prepared copy.

"We're an afternoon paper," he told the Kentuckian, "and you'll finish your talk just before we go to press. There won't be time to write the story and give it good play. Could you give me the main points now?"

He did, but hundreds of people were kept waiting. The reporter was embarrassed, and said so. "Don't apologize to me," said Senator Barkley. "I'm here to get publicity for Harry Truman as a candidate for president, myself as his running mate, and those on the ticket who are running for state and local offices.

"You and your newspaper can give it to us. So I do you no favor when I take time to give this information. You are doing me, my associates and party the favor. I am the one who should be grateful."

Which was true, but how many in his position would have said it?

A newspaper's ability to decide how and what and how much it will or will not report gives it tremendous power.

But good newspapermen do not regard this as reason to beat their chests and shout of their might as did Tarzan of the Apes.

They regard it instead as reason to be humble, using that power and ability to get things done in community and public service. . . using it to help mankind.

They regard it too as an obligation to report the news fully and fairly with decency, judgment and kindness.

This -- National Newspaper Week -- is a time when newspapers and newspaper men and women repledge themselves to this task.

A Sikeston man reported about his small nephew who wrote a letter to Santa Claus telling him he wanted his bicycle fixed and his violin broken.

Heard at the coffee table:

"A man may fall several times but he isn't a failure until he starts saying someone pushed him."

He is not a good talker; but everybody likes to talk with him, because he learns to like people by being a good listener.

"The states as innovators and initiators" is the keynote of the 20th annual National Legislative Conference which opened Wednesday in San Antonio.

The choice of topic seems odd because innovation has not often been the long suit of the states. A report issued by the Committee for Economic Development blunted stated why:

"Some state governments meet new needs relatively well but most do not."

There are two reasons why the states have been unable to keep up with changing social and economic demands.

First, many of today's problems transcend state boundaries and require regional solutions. Smoke abatement in the Greater St. Louis area, involving both Missouri and Illinois, is a prime example -- familiar to all Southeast Missouri and Southern Illinois residents.

Second, most state governments are poorly organized to fulfill their growing responsibilities and to perform functions clearly within their province. The awkward division of authority between St. Louis and St. Louis county is an example of this.

Progress toward reform of state constitutions and governmental machinery has been glacial. At least 18 states will submit proposed constitutional revisions to the voters this year and next but few of the proposals are major.

Two exceptions are Maryland and New York both of which are in the process of rewriting their constitutions.

Although Missouri has many problems its constitutional structure is not outmoded.

The search for improvement should continue. Changes are coming fast and it would be most heartening if communities, counties, larger regions within the state and Missouri itself could provide a structure adequate to permit progress.

Missourians as well as residents of other states sometimes cling too much to tradition and to use the legislative conference word are too unwilling to innovate.

A friend dies every month or so, acquires age himself.

Everyone learns how to live with this as he does with all other of life's experiences.

The pessimist is discouraged. He's sure he'll be next.

The optimist is encouraged because he is still among the living. The devout give their thanks in prayer.

One of my friends was a quiet, jolly person, who enjoyed her neighbors and friends in a small Bootheel community. She was a gentle soul. A religious person, she appreciated visits by ministers and contributed to her own church, other churches and the Billy Graham crusade. There was a color picture of Graham in a prominent place in her living room. Her laugh was contagious.

Our own response to her departure involved a small contribution in her memory to a church whose minister befriended her in old age. We might have done more while she could have enjoyed it.

Flowers and contributions are fine. A funeral would be drab without flowers and it is appropriate and thoughtful to make a contribution to a person's church, to one of his charities or contribute a memorial book compatible with his interests to a public or church library.

When a friend dies the memory of his good deeds rush through the mind like a torrent. Unfortunately this mental process too often does not percolate so readily while he is alive. Yes, it is fine to remember the dead but too many of us do too little for friends, who have grown old.

Often they are lonely. Their lives have grown bleak, barren and uninteresting.

How much better it is to concentrate on trying to make them happier while they are alive by writing or visiting them often, taking them out to dine, buying them little gifts and giving of ourselves rather than merely waiting to write a check after they die.

No old man ever married a young woman without making a mistake.

John Burroughs said: "I still find each day too short for all the thoughts I want to think, all the walks I want to take, all the books I want to read, and all the friends I want to see. The longer I live the more my mind dwells upon the beauty and wonder of the world."

October makes us realize so many things and perhaps this is because we have seen so many Octobers come and go. To those of us who have lived our three score and ten, with a few years added, October can be likened to our later years. We came to know that Mother Nature, as God created her, is constant and doesn't change, but that people do. From simple living we have developed into a specialized civilization, and it is very difficult, at times, to understand that it is all about. Even the old family doctor is disappearing from the scene and today one specialist tells us what other specialist to see.

It is right that all men should be considered equal insofar as human dignity is concerned, but there it ends. All men are not created equal and it is wishful thinking to assume that they ever will be. Of the millions of people who have and now do live on this earth, no two were, or are, alike, even to the number of hairs on their heads. The why of this we do not understand and perhaps we never shall. God, in His wisdom, made it so. He created white, black, brown and red men and all were and are born with certain qualities.

In our own beloved America, we believe that every man should have the chance to go as far as his own capabilities will carry him, and in this respect we like the following by Thomas Wolfe: "So then, to every man his chance - To every man regardless of his birth, his shining golden opportunity. To every man the right to live, to work, to be himself, and to become whatever thing his manhood and vision can combine to make him. This, seeker, is the promise of America."

We wish it were possible that doles from our government could make all Americans what they would like to be, but we all know this can never be so. On the contrary, it tends to rob men of their initiative, and they cease trying to help themselves. It takes from those who work the fruits of their labor, and this creates resentment. Our country was built by work and sacrifice - by men of vision who dared to carry out their dreams. A benevolent and centralized government can never replace the initiative and will to work of its citizens, and the philosophy that it can will destroy our country if continued.

Private industry keeps our country going and there is no substitute for it. Whether the owner of just a small store, our giant industries, or those who labor on the land to provide our food - they are the ones who keep the wheels turning. If they are ever destroyed by unjust restrictions by our government - then it will be too bad for all of us.

And so it's October and Autumn will be just as beautiful as ever because Mother Nature was created by God. Leaves that were fresh and green in spring will turn to browns and reds and yellows. This is Mother Nature's way of putting plant life to sleep for its winter nap.

And as giant oaks from acorns grow, so people grow from babes in swaddling clothes. As the twig is bent, so grows the oak, and people grow from living, learning and loving.

It takes a lot of doing

As we pass through this life,

But there is lots of happiness

Along with all the strife.

A Sikeston woman insisted that furniture in every room must match. When her husband died, she had the casket put into the dining room because it matched the furniture.

Ninety-eight persons lost their lives while walking on Missouri streets and highways during the first eight months of the year, it was reported by the State Highway Patrol. This compares to 103 pedestrian deaths in the same period last year.

Through August of this year, 54 persons lost their lives while walking in urban traffic and 44 pedestrians died in rural traffic. The months of March, May and August each recorded 15 pedestrian deaths. June accounted for 13; January had 12 persons killed while walking; April 10; and February and July both claimed 9 pedestrian deaths in Missouri.

"The deaths of many of these pedestrians were as unnecessary as they were unexpected," declared Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Patrol Superintendent. "Probably the drivers responsible, or the pedestrians responsible for their own deaths, could be accused of only carelessness. But what a terrible thing it is to be run down on a street or highway because someone was careless. A little more careful walking and driving by the individuals involved could have prevented many of these deaths." Colonel Hockaday emphasized that the next three months may be a tragic time for pedestrians. The Missouri pedestrian traffic toll for the last three months of 1966 was 46 -- an average of 15 a month.

"More hours of darkness and the many holiday festivities ahead make the last three months of the year a particularly hazardous time for those who walk the streets and highways," he noted. "I urge both drivers and pedestrians to be extra watchful for each other during this period."

The Patrol Superintendent reminded pedestrians to look both ways before crossing a street, and to cross only at corners. He also pointed out that when walking at night, it is best to wear something light colored that will show up in a vehicle's headlights.

Since the early 1930's when public spending in the name of "social good" got mixed up and tainted with vote-buying for perpetual office-holding, there has been a lot of debate about federal spending programs.

Clearly, there might as well never have been a discussion about even one of them. This is proven by the fact that the national debt has become solarge and frightening, one has to shove the specter of it out of his mind or go out of his mind.

Because Americans could tolerate this terrible thing called national debt -- and the side effect of the dizzying, increasing interest on it ($12 billion a year) -- they could also tolerate a toxic apathy toward the price of government - taxes, both hidden and open.

We knew then, and know now, that a tax is a collection to finance government; that an open tax is something we know we are paying when we pay it, such as income tax, sales taxes, property taxes. But, only a few government bureaucrats and a handful of other Americans are fully cognizant of hidden taxes and their impact on the economy.

Let's look at some examples of hidden taxes. Financing of the social security program is one example of hidden tax. Social security payments are provided from social security taxes collected from two sources: the employee and his employer. The tax the employee pays is an optax, clearly recorded on each paycheck.

However, the tax paid by the employer constitutes a hidden tax. The employer-paid social security tax is a part of the cost of hiring each employee. It must be included in the estimate of the expenses of the business and is reflected in the cost of the product which purchasers (taxpayers) must pay if they want to buy that product.

To know what social security benefits actually cost, each individual should note the social security tax deduction which now appears on each of his paychecks, and double it.

Probably the most far-reaching and complicated example of a hidden tax is that mountain of subsidies and controls known as the federal farm program.

Most people are aware that farmers are paid an enormous subsidy from the federal treasury to "support" the market prices of certain food products; that is, to insulate them from the laws of supply and demand. These subsidies, costing $6 billion a year, are paid out of the federal treasury with tax dollars.

The point to understand in connection with the farm program is that "price supports" on farm products have to be paid for TWICE. The first payment is the one people understand, the subsidy which represents the price government pays for farm produce out of the treasury. The

A rise in the price of lettuce and fruit was inevitable, thanks to the policy of barring experienced, willing and eager Mexican farm labor from California farms and the Southwest. Lettuce went up from 19 to 39 cents a head, strawberries from 35 to 49 cents a pint. The extra cost was a hidden tax which consumers paid for the "social rehabilitation" experiment to make productive farm laborers out of jobless city bums, beatniks and teenagers. It was a noble but fruitless experiment which cost was measured by the extra cash the consumer shelled out for lettuce and strawberries.

So, it becomes plain that ignorance about government can be very expensive. Too often, the price is cash and liberty.

AN LBJ POLL

A group of prominent New Yorkers, not satisfied with some of the current polls, financed a New York poll of their own on the question of how Lyndon Johnson would run against top Republican candidates. They found that he easily led Richard Nixon, Gov. Romney, Gov. Reagan and Sen. Percy. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller was not included in the poll because of his apparent determination not to run and the determination of so many Republicans not to nominate him even if he changed his mind.

The poll was conducted by "Political Surveys and Analysis, Inc.," of Princeton, N.J., during September, and was taken separately in New York State, which the Republicans control, and New York City, which the Democrats control. Johnson ran strong both upstate and in New York City, though stronger in the city.

Unlike some other polls which have lumped the Republican candidates together, this one was taken man for man, between Johnson and each individual Republican. The poll on Nixon vs. Johnson was especially significant inasmuch as many Republican leaders figure the ex-vice president will end up the party's final choice. The Princeton poll showed Johnson running 60 to Nixon's 23 in New York City and 47 to Nixon's 38 in New York state.

The pollsters broke down the people polled by sex, religion, color and age. This showed that Nixon rated only 7 per cent among Jewish voters against Johnson's 81. He rated 14 per cent among Negro and Puerto Rican voters against Johnson's 71 per cent and in the age brackets Johnson rated 53 per cent in the 21-39 year group against Nixon's 30 per cent. 54 against Nixon's 30 working members of congress, says he never saw anything so depressingly awesome as the 40,000 miles of lower Texas under water. . . Mrs. John O'Hara Observes 96th Birthday, Says 'I'm Really Happy'

By Ruth Dillender
"I'm really happy," says Mrs. John O'Hara, 506 East Center St., as she observes her 96th birthday today.

She was honored Sunday at a reception at her home.

Mrs. O'Hara was born Oct. 10, 1871, in Pestigo, Mich. A forest fire in the area caused Mrs. O'Hara's parents to flee their home. In the panic that followed, Mrs. O'Hara was born, four months premature and weighing less than two pounds. She is the oldest of 11 children.

Mrs. O'Hara has lived in Sikeston 48 years. She came here with her husband who was employed by the Frisco railroad.

In May Mrs. O'Hara will mark her 33rd year as teacher of the daring, small or big.

Through the power of your creative imagination you catch a vision...you dream a dream. You visualize yourself as the man you want to be.

You see yourself as a triumphant personality striding toward far horizons of constructive accomplishment.

You see yourself as a master servant of the race, ministering to human needs, radiating happiness.

You see yourself as a master You see yourself as a builder, making a creative contribution to the evolution of modern civilization.

You strive to make the ideal in your mind become a reality on the canvas of Time.

You select and mix the positive colors of heart, mind and spirit into the qualities of effective living: patience, determination, endurance, self-discipline, work, love and faith.

Each moment of your life is a brush stroke in the painting of your growing career.

There are the bold, sweeping strokes of one increasing, dynamic purpose.

There are the lights and shadows that make your life deep and strong.

There are the little touches that add the stamp of character

You hold in your hand the camel's hair brush of a painter of Life. You stand before the vast white canvas of Time. The paints are your thoughts, emotions and acts.

You select the colors of your thoughts; drab or bright, weak or strong, good or bad.

You select the colors of your emotions; discordant or harmonious, harsh or quiet, weak or strong.

You select the colors of your acts; cold or warm, fearful or

Lonborg Continues Mastery

Football Cards Move Into Cleveland

By RON JAYNES

Daily Standard Sports Editor

ST. LOUIS -- "We're taking them back to our Green Monster," was the roar from the Boston Red Sox Carl Yastrzemski after Gentleman Jim Lonborg set the National League champion St. Louis Cardinals down 3-1 in the fifth game of the 1967 World Series and closed a 3-1 deficit in games to 3-2 as the series moves back to Fenway park.

Lonborg, suffering from a slight cold, was watching the television program "Mission Impossible" Sunday night when he fell asleep. Then he awoke and found himself in the second game of the series, by keeping the Cardinals' leadoff duo of Lou Brock and Curt Flood off the bases and limiting the rest of the squad to scattered hits.

The ace right-hander of manager Bill Williams' Cincinnati Reds squad and the prime candidate for the American League's Cy Young award missed by one out in pitching 18-innings of shutout ball against the National champs when Roger Maris homered with two out in the ninth.

He still wound up with a three-hitter and a World Series record for allowing the fewest hits in two consecutive series games. He stopped the Cardinals on a one-hitter Thursday in Boston in the second game of the Series and now has credit for both Bosox wins.

Now it's up to Gary Waslewski, a 26-year-old right-hander, to keep the Series rolling for the Sox. He got the nod from Manager Williams for the starting role opposite the Cardinals' Dick Hughes, a loser in the Series second game, as the Series resumes in Boston Wednesday.

Any postponement because of rain might move the Sox ace back into the pitching role for the sixth game Manager Williams commented after the game.

Wake Forest Next For Memphis State

MEMPHIS, Tenn. -- Don't look now but that team is back again. Wake Forest, a real nemesis for Memphis State, comes to town this week shooting for another upset over the Tigers.

Saturday night's game starts at 7:30 in Memorial Stadium.

Two years ago in Memphis Wake Forest was a big underdog, Memphis State carried a five-game winning streak, but the Deacons won 21-20. Last year at Winston-Salem the Tigers had another five-game streak going, Wake Forest was again a decided underdog but won anyway 21-7.

Memphis State doesn't have any string of victories going this time. Utah State took care of that last week with an upset of its own, 28-14, at Salt Lake City.

The Tigers went into the game with convincing wins over Ole Miss and Cincinnati but those credentials did not impress the Aggies.

"We were basically bad," says Coach Billy Murphy. "We didn't block and we didn't tackle and we got beat bad at the line of scrimmage. Utah State was ready to play and we weren't so they won the ball game."

While Memphis State has trouble with Utah State, Wake Forest has been having trouble all season. The Deacons have dropped four straight and are still looking for their first win.

The last team that Wake Forest beat was (you guessed it) Memphis State in that big upset at Winston-Salem last year. The Deacons' record this year is a little deceiving in that they have played some fine teams and three of their four games have been on the road.

Southern Cal Strengthens Grip

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southern California, with a strengthened grip on the top spot in The Associated Press football poll, faces perhaps the toughest opponent on its schedule Saturday, playing Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind.

The Trojans, who received 36 of the 50 first-place votes from a panel of sportswriters and broadcasters, held a safe margin over second-place Purdue, which received 10 first-place votes while North Carolina State got four.

Southern Cal had 462 votes to Purdue's 385. Notre Dame rose from seventh last week to fifth came on a changeup down and out away from the plate and that he thought his fastball and control was somewhat better.

The ace-right-hander of the Bosox staff came up with another blister on his right thumb as he did in his first start. It was described by Lonborg as "skin breaking away from the nail."

Williams related his theory that "Brock and Flood are the key to defeating the Cardinals, by keeping these two men off base we can beat them." That was something they proved in both wins.

The Cardinal dressing room was subdued, but not concerned, Julian Javier, who made another spectacular play at second base to match his gem in the second game, summed up the Cardinals feelings.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — John McHale played center for Notre Dame's 1940 football team and next year John McHale hopes to play fullback on the Irish varsity.

The senior McHale is an aide to baseball commissioner William Eckert.

Young McHale, who was sought by 30 schools, is on the Irish freshman team this fall. He's a six-footer of 205 pounds and last year was considered the best scholastic fullback in the state of Georgia.

Young McHale is an honor student despite having attended three high schools. His dad was moving around while going from the Milwaukee Braves to the Atlanta Braves to the Baseball office in New York.

HERZOG TO MANAGE

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets' team in the 12-club Florida State Instructional League is being managed by Whitey Herzog, new director of player development.

Working with Herzog, 1966 third base coach of the Mets, are Clyde McCullough, Roy Sievers and Pete Pavlick. Jacksonville manager Bill Virdon will join the group for the final weeks of the season.

Nels Burbrink, Bill Kelly, Charley Frey, Dee Fondy and Birdie Tebbetts will scout the league.

Bob Scheffing, who once had Herzog's job, is now special aide to Met president Bing Devine.

SPORT SHORTS ...

QUEBEC (AP) — Bob Pulford scored two goals within 32 seconds late in the third period Monday night lifting the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League to a 4-2 exhibition victory over the Quebec Aces of the American League.

He related that Maris' home run lost to Duke 31-13, Clemson 23-6, Houston 50-6 and Virginia 14-2. The first three were on the road.

Memphis State got a couple of injuries out of the Utah State loss. Offensive tackle Gus Mahan hurt a knee in the game and defensive tackle Francis Winkler hurt a knee in the locker room but both should be able to play this week.

Sophomore quarterback Rick Thurman ran for 79 yards against the Aggies and now leads the Tigers in rushing with a 5.1 average in 27 carries. Dale Brady and Lee Narramore got the touchdowns Saturday and nine different players have now scored for the Tigers. Richard Coady has a big edge in receiving with 13 catches for 176 yards. Nick Pappas has run eight kickoff back 269 yards and those figures should rank him pretty high nationally.

Jim Lonborg

"We're going to beat them there (in Boston)," he predicted. "We still have the hammer and we're still in front." The Cardinals still have a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series.

Javier's relation to the hammer was in response to the Red Sox manager's comment that the Cardinals have 27 nails to hammer. Meaning that they have 27 outs to get before they can become the world champs.

If a seventh game is necessary, both managers have said they would go with their two-game winners, the Cardinals Bob Gibson with three days rest and the Red Sox' Lonborg with two days rest.

second guessing has to be purely academic.

There were some eyebrows lifted in the press coop when Schoendienst sent up Bob Tolan to bat for Carlton leading off the sixth. The Cards trailed only 1-0 at the time and the one run off 22-year-old Carlton had been unearned.

"We had to try to get a run," said Schoendienst, "Carlton still was real strong."

Tolan struck out and the Cards never did get their run until two were in the ninth. By that time they were trailing 3-0.

The young lefty yielded the unearned run in the third after Joe Foy singled and Mike Shannon fumbled Mike Andrews' sacrifice bunt. He blew a third called strike past Carl Yastrzemski but yielded a run-scoring single by Ken Harrelson.

Boston put it away in the ninth when Ron Willis, third Card pitcher, loaded the bases on a walk to George Scott, a double by Reggie Smith and an international pass to Rico Petrocelli.

After throwing one ball to Elston Howard, Willis was replaced by Jack Lamabe. Howard singled down the line in right, scoring Scott. Maris hurried throw to the plate was high for an error, permitting Smith to also score.

CLEVELAND -- It was a grey, chill December afternoon in St. Louis. The Cleveland Browns held a 38-10 lead over the St. Louis Cardinals and there were 12 minutes left in the game.

The Cardinals received the kickoff and went into the huddle on their own 29-yard line. A new face was at quarterback -- the youthful face of Jim Hart, making his NFL debut.

Hart's first play was a screen pass to Willis Crenshaw, complete for one yard.

The score of the game didn't change, with the Browns winning, 38-10, and Hart's debut was not tremendously auspicious. He completed four of 11 passes for 29 yards and was trapped behind the line twice for losses of 21 yards.

Now, less than 10 months later, Hart is the Big Red's No. 1 quarterback. He has led the Cardinals to come-from-behind victories the last two weekends (38-28 over Detroit, 34-24 over Minnesota) and is rising in the NFL quarterback rankings.

On Sunday, at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium, he will lead the Cardinals against the Browns in a key Century Division battle.

On Sunday, at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium, he will lead the Cardinals against the Browns in a key Century Division battle.

Lonborg Continues Mastery

Football Cards Move Into Cleveland

By RON JAYNES

Daily Standard Sports Editor

ST. LOUIS -- "We're taking them back to our Green Monster," was the roar from the Boston Red Sox Carl Yastrzemski after Gentleman Jim Lonborg set the National League champion St. Louis Cardinals down 3-1 in the fifth game of the 1967 World Series and closed a 3-1 deficit in games to 3-2 as the series moves back to Fenway park.

Lonborg, suffering from a slight cold, was watching the television program "Mission Impossible" Sunday night when he fell asleep. Then he awoke Monday afternoon and did what many St. Louis rosters thought was impossible -- stopping the Cardinals the second, straight time.

Lonborg turned the trick as he did in the second game of the series by keeping the Cardinals leadoff duo of Lou Brock and Curt Flood off the bases and limiting the rest of the squad to scattered hits.

The ace righthander of manager Bill Williams Cinderella Red Sox squad and the prime candidate for the American League Cy Young award missed by one out in pitching 18-innings of shutout ball against the National champs when Roger Maris homered with two out in the ninth.

He still wound up with a three-hitter and a World Series record for allowing the fewest hits in two consecutive series games. He stopped the Cardinals on a one-hitter Thursday in Boston in the second game of the Series and now has credit for both Bosox wins.

Now it's up to Gary Waslewski, a 26-year-old right-hander, to keep the Series rolling for the Sox. He got the nod from Manager Williams for the starting role opposite the Cardinals' Dick Hughes, a loser in the Series second game, as the Series resumes in Boston Wednesday.

Any postponement because of rain might move the Sox ace back into the pitching role for the sixth game Manager Williams commented after the game.

The Sox are set in their ways and comments were echoing throughout the American league champions dressing room after the victory "we can beat them." So far, however, only Gentleman Jim has been able to beat them.

The 24-year-old right-hander never was in trouble Monday, and after the Red Sox picked up a pair of runs in the top of the ninth even Maris' homer didn't bother him.

The only other hits he allowed were singled by Dal Maxville in the third and Maris in the fourth.

Boston used a revitalized lineup in getting right-handed hitters going against the Cardinals starting left-handed hurler, Steve Carlton, who pitched a brilliant one-run game for six innings.

It turned out though, that the Sox hit the right-handed relief better than Carlton. They pushed around two runs in the ninth inning to cap the victory.

Lonborg used more fastballs in yesterday's win than he did in his first appearance against St. Louis.

He related that Maris' home run

came on a changeup down and out away from the plate and that he thought his fastball and control was somewhat better.

The ace-right-hander of the Bosox staff came up with another blister on his right thumb as he did in his first start. It was described by Lonborg as "skin breaking away from the nail," game, summed up the Cardinals feelings.

"Brock and Flood are the key to defeating the Cardinals, by keeping these two men off base we can beat them." That was something they proved in both wins.

The Cardinal dressing room was subdued, but not concerned. Julian Javier, who made another hit to match his gem in the second game, was the Cardinals' feelings.

"We're going to beat them there (in Boston)," he predicted. "We still have the hammer and we're still in front." The Cardinals still have a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven Series.

Javier's relation to the hammer was in response to the Red Sox manager's comment that the Cardinals have 27 nails to hammer. Meaning that they have 27 outs

CLEVELAND-- It was a grey, chill December afternoon in St. Louis. The Cleveland Browns held a 38-10 lead over the St. Louis Cardinals and there were 12 minutes left in the game.

The Cardinals received the kickoff and went into the huddle on their own 29-yard line. A new face was at quarterback -- the youthful face of Jim Hart, making his NFL debut.

Hart's first play was a screen pass to Willis Crenshaw, complete for one yard.

The score of the game didn't change, with the Browns winning, 38-10, and Hart's debut was not tremendously auspicious. He completed four of 11 passes for 29 yards and was trapped behind the line twice for losses of 21 yards.

Now, less than 10 months later, Hart is the Big Red's No. 1 quarterback. He has led the Cardinals to come-from-behind victories the last two weekends (38-28 over Detroit, 34-24 over Minnesota) and is rising in the NFL quarterback rankings.

On Sunday, at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium, he will lead the Cardinals against the Browns in a key Century Division battle. Hart has completed 51 of 109 passes for 863 yards and five touchdowns this season, but his totals for the last two games are an extremely impressive 33 of 54 for 560 yards and four scores.

The quarterback was not the only hero of the 34-24 victory over the Vikings. John Roland, off to an even faster start than in his Rookie-of-the-Year season a year ago, had his second 100-yard day and scored the Big Red's last two touchdowns.

Roland, ranking second in the NFL in rushing, has carried the ball 73 times for 322 yards and six touchdowns, as many scores as he got all last season. A yards is only 20 behind NFL leader Leroy Kelly of the Browns, who has 342 yards.

Two other Cardinals had record-setting performances against the Vikings. Jim Bakken's field goals gave him a string of 15 consecutive games in which he has kicked field goals, going back to the fourth game of 1966. Ironically, the 34-28 victory over the Browns last year was the only game of the season in which Bakken did not kick a field goal.

The 15-game streak, incidentally, cracked a record of 14 set by the Browns' great Lou Groza in the 1950-51 seasons.

Larry Wilson, making his first interception of the season on the final play of the game, took over the Cardinal career interception lead with the grab, his 31st. He

Wake Forest Next For Memphis State

MEMPHIS, Tenn. -- Don't look now but that team is back again. Wake Forest, a real nemesis for Memphis State, comes to town this week shooting for another upset over the Tigers.

Saturday night's game starts at 7:30 in Memorial Stadium.

Two years ago in Memphis Wake Forest was a big underdog. Memphis State carried a five-game winning streak, but the Deacons won 21-20. Last year at Winston-Salem the Tigers had another five-game streak going, Wake Forest was again a decided underdog but won anyway 21-7.

Memphis State doesn't have any string of victories going this time. Utah State took care of that last week with an upset of its own, 28-44, at Salt Lake City.

The Tigers went into the game with convincing wins over Ole Miss and Cincinnati but those credentials did not impress the Aggies.

"We were basically bad," says Coach Billy Murphy. "We didn't block and we didn't tackle and we got beat bad at the line of scrimmage. Utah State was ready to play and we weren't so they won the ball game."

While Memphis State had trouble with Utah State, Wake Forest has been having trouble all season. The Deacons have dropped four straight and are still looking for their first win.

The last team that Wake Forest beat was (you guessed it) Memphis State in that big upset at Winston-Salem last year. The Deacons' record this year is a little deceiving in that they have played some fine teams and three of their four games have been on the road.

Second Guess

By The Associated Press

BOSTON (AP) -- If only Red Schoendienst had known Roger Maris was going to hit a homer with two out in the ninth, he wouldn't have lifted Steve Carlton for a pinch hitter in the sixth inning of Monday's fifth World Series game.

As Schoendienst hardly could expect a home run off Jim Lonborg, who had shut out his St. Louis Cardinals with one hit Thursday and threatened to blank them again Monday, any second guessing has to be purely academic.

There were some eyebrows lifted in the press coop when Schoendienst sent up Bob Tolan to bat for Carlton leading off the sixth. The Cards trailed only 1-0 at the time and the one run off 22-year-old Carlton had been unearned.

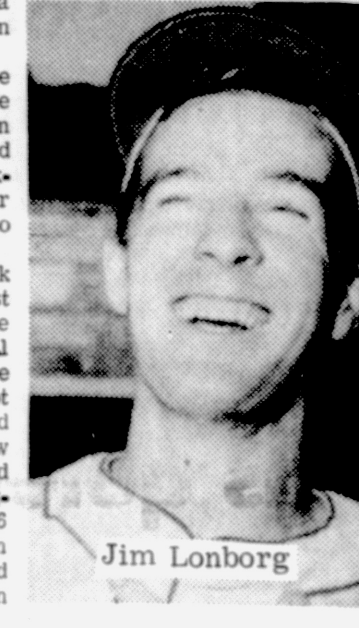

"We had to try to get a run," said Schoendienst. "Carlton still was real strong."

Tolan struck out and the Cards never did get their run until two were out in the ninth. By that time they were trailing 3-0.

The young lefty yielded the unearned run in the third after Joe Foy singled and Mike Shannon fumbled Mike Andrews' sacrifice bunt. He blew a third called strike past Carl Yastrzemski but yielded a run-scoring single by Ken Harrelson.

Boston put it away in the ninth when Ron Willis, third Card pitcher, loaded the bases on a walk to George Scott, a double by Reggie Smith and an international pass to Rico Petrocelli.

After throwing one ball to Elston Howard, Willis was replaced by Jack Lamabe, howard singled down the line in right, scoring Scott. Maris hurried throw to the plate was high for an error, permitting Smith to also score.

After Sunday's game, the Cardinals return home for a two-game home stand. They face the Philadelphia Eagles on October 22 and the Green Bay Packers in a big Monday night game on October 30. All bleacher seats have been sold for those two games, though other seats are available. Seats in both price ranges are available for the Big Red's final three home games.

Southern Cal Strengthens Grip

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southern California, with a strengthened grip on the top spot in The Associated Press football poll, faces perhaps the toughest opponent on its schedule Saturday, playing Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind.

The Trojans, who received 36 of the 50 first-place votes from a panel of sportswriters and broadcasters, held a safe margin over second-place Purdue, which received 10 first-place votes while North Carolina State got four.

Southern Cal had 462 votes to Purdue's 385. Notre Dame rose from seventh last week to fifth Saturday when it meets Missouri, which got strong honorable-mention support in the poll. The Tigers are unbeaten with three victories.

Alabama, rising from ninth to seventh by beating Mississippi 21-7, meets Vanderbilt, 2-1. Nebraska, down from seventh to eighth after a close victory over Kansas State, meets winless Kansas.

Ninth-rated North Carolina State, flush with its victory over Houston, meets Maryland, 0-2, while Houston, down from second to 10th after losing to Ole Miss, meets Tennessee.

Elegant tradition: The smoothest whisky ever to come out of Canada!

WINDSOR Supreme CANADIAN Whisky

Now compare Windsor! Pour two drinks — highballs or over ice — one with your usual, one with Windsor Canadian. Notice the superior smoothness and the flavor of Windsor.

That's because no other custom-distilled whisky shares these three extraordinary features:

1. Only Windsor Canadian is made from choicest northern prairie grains, bursting with fresh flavor.

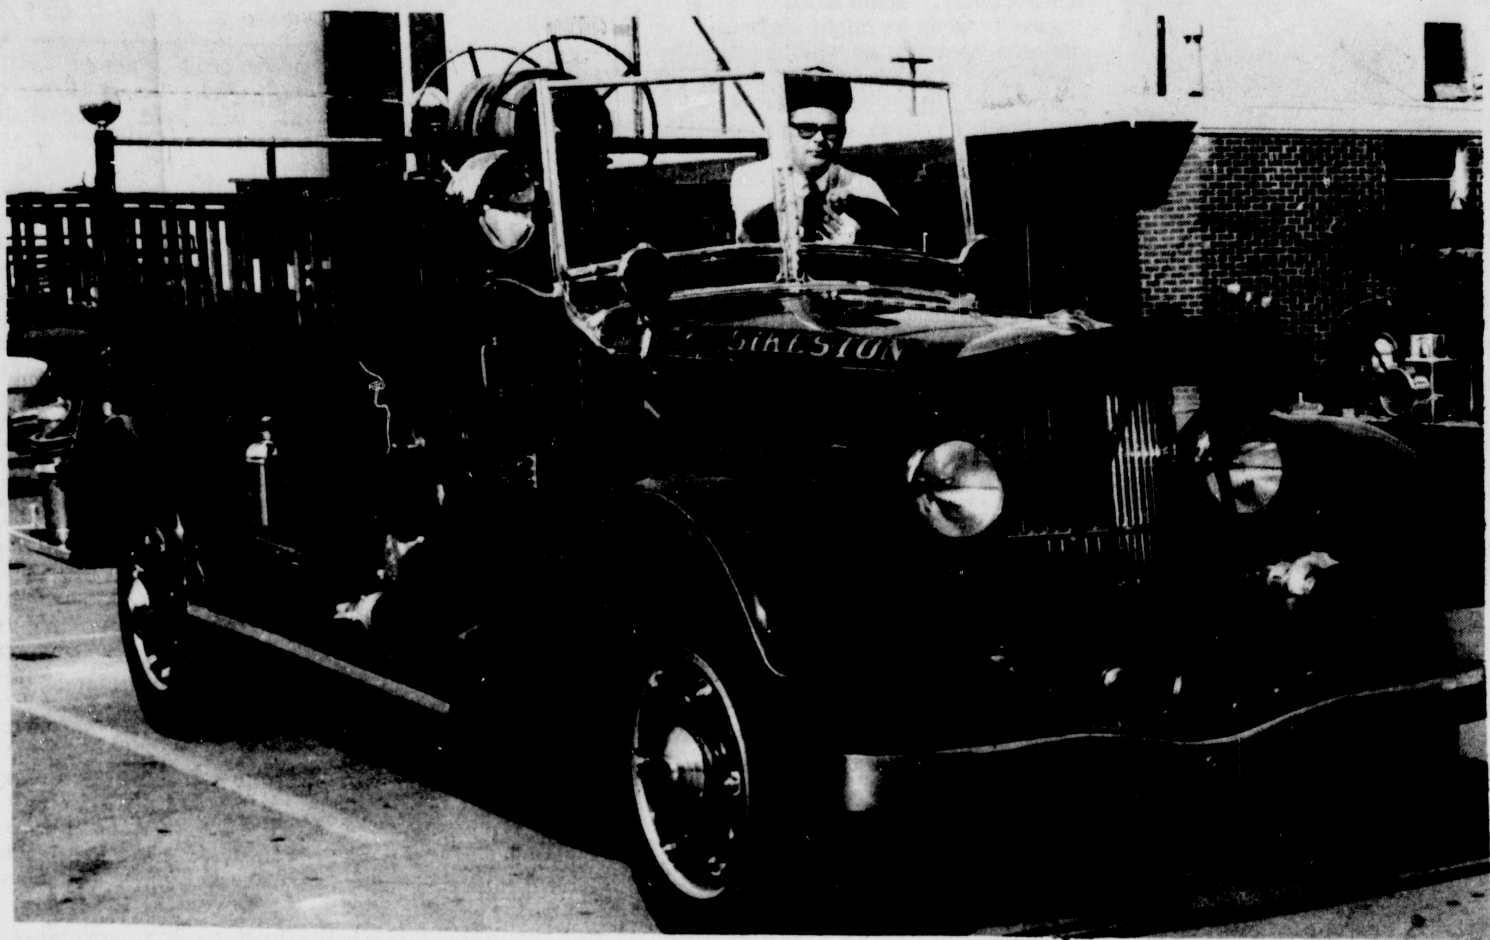

2. Only Windsor Canadian is born of icy mountain glacial water drawn pure and clear from underground streams.

3. Only Windsor Canadian is aged in the incredibly dry air of Canada's Rockies. Where, nearly a mile high, it gentles to sippin'-smooth perfection.

Yet it costs no more than leading domestic whiskies, because we import Windsor Canadian, then bottle it here. Thus saving on duties and other charges. Compare the price and the smoothness of Windsor. Once you do, you'll never settle for less or pay more. That's tradition for you!

Woman Reports Shaking Fist at Killer of Seven

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — A Mesa beauty college director testified today she shook her fist at a young killer after he shot seven persons in her shop last November.

Mrs. Earl Cummings said she heard what she thought was the crack of a whip, then ran into the shop to see a man with a gun in the college.

Mrs. Cummings said she fled to a nearby shop and called the police, thinking "it was just a robbery."

When she re-entered the school with police, Mrs. Cummings said, she saw Robert Benjamin Smith "standing there," Mrs. Cummings told of running to a back room because she could hear a baby crying, and there discovered seven persons, including two children, had been shot.

"My eyes focused on Carol Farmer and I saw the blood running," she said, Mrs. Cummings said then she went out, saw Smith, shook her fist at him and said: "Why, you shot my students!"

In testimony Monday an adult survivor of the shooting testified the victims didn't realize their assailant was serious until he began shooting them in the head.

Mrs. Bonita Sue Harris Canteloupe pointed to Robert Benjamin Smith, 19, as the one who killed five persons and wounded two. She told how she played dead after Smith shot her in the head and arm.

"We thought he was kidding when he came in a side door with a gun in his hand and shot in the air to get our attention," the soft-spoken, dark-haired witness said.

"Then he put the gun to my head and ordered everyone into a back room" of the Rose-Mar College of Beauty, Mrs. Canteloupe was one of the student operators when the shooting occurred last Nov. 12.

She said another woman exclaimed "It isn't a joke!" and began muttering.

The man asked what she was saying and she said "She's praying, if you don't mind."

She said Smith said he did not mind and began shooting.

"There were some shots, then a pause and then I heard a sack rattling. Then more shots and I was hit," she added.

"I lay there and played dead until the lights came on and I recognized Mrs. Cummings' (the school director) voice."

Mrs. Canteloupe was the sixth witness as the state moved swiftly in the first day of the superior court trial before an eight-woman, four-man jury.

Smith, a former honor student at Mesa High, sat quietly in a white t-shirt and blue slacks, pale and thin from 11 months in jail. He has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

Change in Landing Plan Preceded Airliner Crash Fatal to 82

ASHVILLE, N. C. (AP) — An air traffic control specialist testified today that he changed his mind on how a Cessna 310 should approach Asheville airport about five minutes before the plane collided with Piedmont Airlines jetliner July 19.

James C. Watkins, on duty at the airport at the time of the collision which resulted in 82 deaths, said he decided that the Cessna should come in from the north to land rather than the previous plan to have it come in from the south.

Testifying at a public hearing, he said he notified the Cessna pilot at 11:56 a.m. to swing northward to Asheville radio beacon, a move which would have put the plane completely out of the climbing jetliner's way.

Watkins said the pilot responded a shot time later that he was following the tower's instructions.

Based on the pilot's report, Watkins said, he authorized take-off clearance for the jetliner, which was on the runway awaiting word from the tower.

Records show the take-off was authorized at 11:58 a.m. The report also shows the jet became airborne 37 seconds later.

Watkins told the inquiry board he had instructed the jet pilot to maintain the runway heading until he reached an altitude of 5,000 feet, an instruction which he said he felt would completely insure "separation" between the planes.

Watkins said he decided to instruct the Cessna pilot to plan on a landing from the north because he felt the change in plan would be "beneficial" to the traffic situation then existing at the airport. Another plane was in the process of a landing approach from the south, he said, and the jetliner was witting to take off to the south.

In earlier testimony, a recorded conversation between pilot and co-pilot aboard the jetliner indicated the crew was unaware of the impending tragedy.

The voice recording of the two Piedmont officers and testimony by several witnesses to the crash were entered in the record at the first meeting of an inquiry board Monday. The board was formed by the National Transportation Safety Board.

The recorded conversation between the Piedmont pilots concerned a cigarette burning in a cockpit ash tray and by-play about the altitude at which the plane was to fly.

At 12:01 and 18 seconds p.m., the radio message which had just begun was interrupted by a sound, "ugh!" and a noise smaller plane "just stood on its tail" before the crash.

A report by the board is expected about the end of the year.

Ruling Requiring Chest Belts on Autos to Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government, deciding that injuries from over-the-shoulder seatbelts are rare, will stand by its requirement that the chest belts be in all new cars built after Dec. 31.

Federal Highway Administrator Lowell K. Bridwell announced Monday the agency's second thoughts about the standard have been resolved. He pronounced use of chest and lap belts together "the best single means of protection available" from injury in car accidents.

The standard will require chest belts for the driver and the right front passenger but not for rear-seat passengers.

Bridwell had announced Aug. 18 the standard was being reviewed.

One concern of federal officials was an indication that in collisions, the chest belts might cause neck injuries.

Autopsy Probes Death of Folk Singer's Sons

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Ark. (AP) — The results of an autopsy on the bodies of the two sons of the folk-western singer Jimmie Driftwood were expected today and it is hoped that they will shed some light on the shooting deaths of the two men.

The bodies of James Risher Driftwood and Bing Lee Morris, 24, were found Monday at America's involvement in Vietnam war.

Wallace received applause from every audience when he said "we should grab every bearded professor and drag him before a grand jury for being a traitor, traitor" when he was the former governor men-tioned those who disagreed with the military draft or protested.

Driftwood, who wrote the hit song "The Battle of New Orleans," was notified of the tragedy at Brussels, Belgium. He wife found the bodies about 4 p.m. after returning home from tour to promote travel in the Mountain View, where she teaches school.

Driftwood is his professional name. The family's real name is Morris.

Longest muscle in the human body is the sartorius, which crosses the front of the thigh obliquely.

The moon's diameter has been estimated at about 2,160 miles.

Stone County Sheriff Charles Rosa said the bodies were about 20 feet apart. He said a rifle and a shotgun were found in the home and that both had not been fired. Rosa said he had not decided whether the shooting was murder or suicide or murder, manslaughter.

Authorities said Driftwood's body at Brussels, Belgium. He wife found the bodies about 4 p.m. after returning home from tour to promote travel in the Mountain View, where she teaches school.

Woman Reports Shaking Fist at Killer of Seven

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — A Mesa beauty college director testified today she shook her fist at a young killer after he shot seven persons in her shop last November.

Mrs. Earl Cummings said she heard what she thought was the crack of a whip, then ran into the shop to see a man with a gun in the college.

Mrs. Cummings said she fled to a nearby shop and called the police, thinking "it was just a robbery."

When she re-entered the school with police, Mrs. Cummings said, she saw Robert Benjamin Smith "standing there," Mrs. Cummings told of running to a back room because she could hear a baby crying, and there discovered seven persons, including two children, had been shot.

"My eyes focused on Carol Farmer and I saw the blood running," she said. Mrs. Cummings said then she went out, saw Smith, shook her fist at him and said: "Why, you shot my students!"

In testimony Monday an adult survivor of the shooting testified the victims didn't realize their assailant was serious until he began shooting them in the head.

Mrs. Bonita Sue Harris Canteloupe pointed to Robert Benjamin Smith, 19, as the one who killed five persons and wounded two. She told how she played dead after Smith shot her in the head and arm.

"We thought he was kidding when he came in a side door with a gun in his hand and shot in the air to get our attention," the soft-spoken, dark-haired witness said.

"Then he put the gun to my head and ordered everyone into a back room" of the Rose-Mar College of Beauty. Mrs. Canteloupe was one of the student operators when the shooting occurred last Nov. 12.

She said another woman exclaimed "It isn't a joke!" and began muttering.

The man asked what she was saying and she said "She's praying, if you don't mind."

She said Smith said he did mind and began shooting.

"There were some shots, then a pause and then I heard a sack rattling. Then more shots and I was hit," she added.

"I lay there and played dead until the lights came on and I recognized Mrs. Cummings (the school director) voice."

Mrs. Canteloupe was the sixth witness as the state moved swiftly in the first day of the superior court trial before an eight-woman, four-man jury.

Smith, a former honor student at Mesa High, sat quietly in a white t-shirt and blue dangle pants, pale and thin from 11 months in jail. He has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

He looked at the floor when Mrs. Canteloupe entered, but later watched her draw a diagram of the spokeline arrangement of the women at the time of the shootings.

The beauty college owner, Herbert L. Freestone, told of finding seven people "lying on the floor with blood around their heads" on the morning of the shootings.

"I remember there was all kinds of confusion and a little baby was screaming," Freestone said. "And the women were lying there."

The victims were Mrs. Carol Farmer, 19; Mary Olsen, 18; Glenda Carter, 18; Mrs. Joyce Sellers, 27, and her 3-year-old daughter, Deborah. All were taken to the hospital with Mrs. Canteloupe.

Another state witness, Dr. Robert Schranz, testified that all had died of gunshot wounds in the head and identified bullet fragments he had taken from the bodies during autopsies.

Meanwhile, Judge Lawrence Wren lifted previous press restrictions and said he would allow photographers on the floor of the courtroom "as long as they do not photograph jurors or the defendant unless his attorney agrees."

Wren had imposed strict restrictions on newsmen as one of the longest jury selections in Arizona history progressed.

He said he will hold court on Saturdays to speed up the trial.

Change in Landing Plan Preceded Airliner Crash Fatal to 82

ASHVILLE, N. C. (AP) — An air traffic control specialist testified today that he changed his mind on how a Cessna 310 should approach Asheville airport about five minutes before the plane collided with a Piedmont Airlines jetliner July 19.

James C. Watkins, on duty at the airport at the time of the collision which resulted in 82 deaths, said he decided that the Cessna should come in from the north to land rather than the previous plan to have it come in from the south.

Testifying at a public hearing, he said he notified the Cessna pilot at 11:56 a.m. to swing northward to Asheville radio beacon, a move which would have put the plane completely out of the climbing jetliner's way.

Watkins said the pilot responded a short time later that he was following the tower's instructions.

Based on the pilot's report, Watkins said, he authorized take-off clearance for the jetliner, which was on the runway awaiting word from the tower.

similar to rushing air.

The light plane with which the Piedmont Boeing 727 jetliner collided came in from the east.

Several witness said it appeared as though the smaller plane—a Cessna 310—tried to veer away at the last moment before impact.

Thomas H. Conner of Hendersonville said that seconds before impact, the Cessna "made a steep bank—Pd say 20 to 25 degrees."

Vance R. Davis told the board it looked to him as though the Spain, who is engaged in law practice with Joe Welborn at Bloomfield, succeeded Tom F. Baker in the House of Representatives from the Stoddard County area. Spain was elected to the General Assembly at the same time reapportionment took effect and represents the 15th district.

Born in Caruthersville and married to a native of Cape Girardeau, where he took his undergraduate work at Southeast Missouri State College, Spain said he is acquainted in several communities in the district, since before moving to Bloomfield he practiced law at Charleston. "I believe I would have substantial support from all four of these areas," he told Missouri Weekly. He also noted that Stoddard County is located in approximately the center of the Tenth district, a factor which Spain said he believed sees as giving him an advantage in a race that could have as many as 10 or 12 candidates cal leaders and groups in Stoddard County," Spain said.

Asked when he might make a definite decision on whether to seek the Congressional post, Spain said he would probably wait until the first of the year. Dinger said he has been talking to "some people" but that as yet he has not reached any decision whether to enter next year's Democratic primary. He said he expected to decide "sometime in the next 30 days."

Now serving his second term in the Missouri House of Representatives, Dinger represents the 128th District that includes all of Iron County, one township in Dent County, and two townships in St. Francois County, including the towns of Blum and Leadville.

The 46-year-old attorney is a native of Ironton and attended public schools there. He then attended the University of Missouri at Columbia and later enrolled in the School of Law at Washington University in St. Louis. He has practiced law since 1955 and served as prosecuting attorney of Iron County for one term in 1963-64.

During his one-day trip into the Bootheel earlier this week, Dinger conferred with Democratic party chairmen, including Lonnie Kinchen, chairman of the Dunklin Democratic Central Committee.

In addition, he had an appointment with J. V. Conran, New Madrid County political leader. When questioned about any deals with the New Madrid County organization, Dinger said any statement would have to come from Conran. He added that his conference with the New Madrid County produced have just been placed in the "nothing of any consequence," Tenth Congressional District. If both Spain and Dinger decide to enter the race, the list of Democratic hopefuls for the county that is united, and I believe if I ran, I would receive "In addition, I come from a united support from all political State's office, armed with a ruling from the Attorney General, has said Congressional candidates in all 10 districts may not file until legislation apportioning the areas becomes effective. All legislation enacted by the last session of the Missouri General Assembly takes effect next Friday. Presumably on this date, or sometime in the immediate future, Wallace, Burlison, Buford and Rolwing will sign the official declaration of intent forms in Jefferson City.

At this moment, it still remains to be seen whether Spain and Dinger will follow suit.

At least some political observers believe there may be other candidates before next April rolls around including at least one or two other Democrats from the Bootheel area.

Two More May Seek Congressional Seat

KENNETT -- The names of two more possible entries in next year's campaign for the Tenth Congressional District post now held by Paul C. Jones appeared on Southeast Missouri's political horizon this week. Both of the possible Congressional candidates are State Representatives and both are young attorneys.

James E. Spain of Bloomfield, State Representative from Stoddard County, and Marvin L. Dinger, State Representative from Iron County, both said they were interested in making the race and had already sounded out some political leaders as to their chances.

Dinger, whose name may come as a complete surprise to many Bootheel political observers, was in this area this week on a one-day whirlwind, 350-mile tour to speak briefly with some party officials.

Spain, a former law partner of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes when both lived in Charleston, made an earlier tour of this area and met with several Democratic leaders.

Spain this week said he is "listening and talking" to persons in the district, but he said he has been prevented from conducting an extensive sounding because of his law duties, which he described as a "full-time law practice."

Qualifying his statement by noting that he had primarily talked to friends and acquaintances, Spain said he had received "good encouragement" from many of them.

"My trouble is that I am a political unknown, although this can certainly be a benefit to me as well," Spain told Missouri Weekly. He said he believed his candidacy would appeal to many Southeast Missourians who "Buick started off with a classic design and they stayed with it—for good reason. The simple sculptured look was unique at the time and it still is. I'm glad they didn't louse it up by changing it!"

Joe Meyer, Stockbroker.

"You can buy a medium-priced car with all the optional extras and suddenly you're paying a price that's almost as much as the Buick Riviera. I was pleased to find Riviera's tilt wheel, power steering and power brakes are standard equipment!"

"I think Riviera is a very attractive investment. It should certainly be on anybody's recommended buy list!"

If both Spain and Dinger decide to enter the race, the list of Democratic hopefuls for the next Friday, Oct. 13, Jones seat in Congress will increase to six.

First to announce his candidacy was J. W. (Jim) Wallace of Scott City, who twice opposed Rep. Jones in past primary contests and received only a small percentage of the vote.

The next candidate was Bill Burlison, Cape Girardeau County Prosecuting Attorney, who thus far has been making the most active campaign of the announced candidates. Members of Burlison's family in Dunklin and Pemiscot Counties have been assisting in his drive for next year's nomination.

Winston Buford of Eminence, also a Prosecuting Attorney, became the third candidate to announce. Buford too, has begun to campaign, although his activities have been more limited than Burlison's to date.

The fourth avowed candidate is State Representative David Rolwing of Charleston, who has already begun the process of finding willing campaign directors. It is understood that Rolwing already has agreements with some Southeast Missouri leaders to assist in his election bid, although the Mississippi County attorney has thus far done little active campaigning.

Of the six definite or possible candidates, three are State Representatives, four are lawyers, and two of them (Buford and Rolwing of Charleston) reside in counties that presently are not in the Tenth Congressional District. Both Buford and Rolwing's home county of Iron New Madrid County produced have just been placed in the "nothing of any consequence," Tenth Congressional District.

'We Eat a Lot of Hot Dogs'
She Supports Family Sculpting

By WES COOK
Associated Press Writer
KANSAS CITY (AP) — Nan Witte, mother of three boys, says "we eat a lot of hot dogs around here, but the boys and I are living on my commissions."

It was on New Year's Day that the 33-year-old divorcee chucked everything else to become a metal sculptor, "the junkman's best friend."

Since then, a bank purchased her massive two-dimensional "Profile of A City" at a recent show and private purchasers bought "The Prophet," a three-dimensional study in steel wire and other pieces.

"My garage is my workshop," a workshop in which she says, "I'll take anything—old gutters, auto fenders, water tanks, gas pipe, nuts and bolts, steel wire, coat hangers."

Sculpting isn't new to Nan. She said she was introduced to the work by Henry Moore, eminent English sculptor, at a girl's school in Switzerland.

"Thomas Wolf of the University of Colorado got me interested in metal," she said, "but he wouldn't let me take the torch."

"He kept telling me, 'this isn't women's work.' But finally I persuaded him and he sort of apprenticed me—taught me welding and glass work."

She also studied with George Curtis of Owshead, Maine, the artist commissioned to do the National Aeronautics and Space Association sculpture at Cape Kennedy.

"It's true I entered my first art show this spring, but I'm not an overnight success," I've been working at this for fifteen years," she relates, "and I've sold to galleries in the East for several years."

Nan's garage workshop is attached to a ranch style home in Parkville, a small community on the Missouri River about 15 miles north of downtown Kansas City.

The home bustles with the activity of the sculptor, who has given herself 10 years in play with which to achieve what she terms, "true professional excellence," and I've received so far, but with her sons: Stephen, 12; Michael, 11; John, 7; three cats and a pet duck.

THE CITY OF SKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution
A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of concrete curb and gutters on Benton Street from Warner Street to East Street, in accordance with plans and specifications, in the City of Skeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Skeston, State of Missouri, as follows: SECTION 1: That the Council of the City of Skeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Skeston. SECTION 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. SECTION 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $1.65 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. SECTION 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Skeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue Fund of the City of Skeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. SECTION 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. SECTION 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy to this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Skeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 2nd day of October 1967. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk. 5 inc 11

In the estate of Fred Trost
Deceased
Estate No. 3355.
To all persons interested in the estate of Fred Trost, decedent: On the 29th day of September, 1967, Lawrence Trost was appointed the administrator of the estate of Fred Trost, decedent, by the Probate Court of Scott County, Missouri. The business address of the administrator is 1931 College, Cape Girardeau, Missouri, whose telephone number is ED 4-4913 and his attorney is James D. Siskel of Blanton, Blanton and Rice, whose business address is 201 South New Madrid, Sikeston, Missouri, and whose telephone number is GR 1-1000.
All creditors of said decedent are notified to file claims in court within nine months from the date of this notice or be forever barred.

DO SOMETHING.
1. Encourage your schools to have special teachers and special classes to identify and help mentally retarded children early in their lives.
2. Urge your community to set up workshops to train retardates who are capable of employment.
3. Persuade employers to hire the mentally retarded and help those who cannot find work by themselves.
4. Accept the mentally retarded as fellow human beings who can become assets to their families and communities, rather than burdens on society.
5. Write for the free booklet from the President's Committee on Mental Retardation, Washington, D.C.

WANT ADS

All persons interested are notified that such court, at the times and as provided by law, will determine the persons who are the successors in interest to the personal and real property of the decedent and of the extent and character of their interests therein.

Date of first publication is October 3rd, 1967.

THE TAMING OF THE SHREW

Paul Jones, Jr., has taken over the management of the Cotton Club at the South edge of town on Highway 61 and will have a floor show Saturday night, Sunday afternoon and night, October 16 and 17. The Diamond Tavern, one mile south of town on Highway 61, has been taken over by Paul Jones, Sr., and will have its fall opening October 16 and 17. A cat apparently afflicted with rabies went on a rampage Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning, biting and scratching at least five people in the northeast part of the city. The animal, owned by Philip Sadler, 529 Sikes, suddenly became violent Wednesday afternoon after showing symptoms of being ill and scratched Mrs. Sadler. A few minutes later it scratched her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. A. Stovall and Thursday morning it scratched Mrs. Sadler's father, G. W. Hydrick. That morning it also clawed two boys, on their way to school, Phil Waldman and Ernest Milo Gray. Later that morning the cat was shot by officer William Carson.

Morehouse -- Mrs. Hollis Hutson gave a surprise birthday social Friday afternoon at her home in honor of her mother's 76th birthday and Mrs. Martha Peoples 82nd birthday. It would never do to print the name of the man whose wife started to place in his hand bag a pair of her unmentionables as he was preparing for a trip away from home just as a reminder not to forget his family ties while away.

Oct. 10, 1947
Two large real estate transactions were announced today by R. D. Clayton of Sikeston, a real estate broker. D. W. Gilmore of Benton has purchased the block of land which has been subdivided by Mrs. Letitia Jones and is known as the Jones subdivision. The addition lies east of Sikeston on Highway 60 and is between the Crowe Addition and Miller Switch. In another real estate transaction, Joe W. Seales of Pulaski, Tenn., purchased the 30-acre tract of land east of Charleston together with a brick home and fine barns from Hershel Word and Clara Wood. Mrs. E. J. Keith entertained this afternoon at her home with a birthday party in honor of her grandson, Jarit Keith, who is celebrating his sixth birthday today. Hospital notes. Mr. and Mrs. John Horton of Sikeston are parents of a boy born today. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Marler of Matthews are parents of a son born today. Mr. and Mrs. Willie Branch of Oran are parents of a son born Wednesday at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

STATE LAUNCHES PROJECT TO RETRAIN NURSES
JEFFERSON CITY -- The State Division of Health has launched a one-year project to retrain inactive nurses and other professionals to the health field. The project, financed by federal funds, will be under the direction of Miss Helen Pfaff, director of the State Bureau of Nursing.

Mrs. Pfaff has estimated that 20 to 25 per cent of the almost 17,000 professional nurses registered in Missouri are not engaged in nursing. The project nurse coordinator in Clayton, Miss Sandra Burke, said that a 1966 U.S. Public Health Service survey indicated that 1,698 professional nurses were needed in Missouri. In addition, the report indicated a need for 1,138 practical nurses in the state. Questionnaires have been sent to all hospitals in the state asking their needs for professional and practical nurses based on how many each hospital feels it could hire at the present time.

Thelma Is Kooky But Harmless

Dear Ann Landers: I have a friend who has a beautiful home, a fine husband and lovely children. She is bright and interesting and fun to be with, but my husband says she is a nut. Please give me your opinion. Thelma will save 15 miles out of her way to save two cents on a can of beans or six cents on a sack of flour. She clips ads and knows the stock better than the sales people. Thelma will spend hours trying to buy just so she will know what is available "when the time comes." Once she heard of a millinery sale and got down to the store at 7:00 a.m. to make certain she was the first one in the store when the doors opened.

Yesterday, Thelma met me for lunch wearing a dress that I wouldn't put on the end of a mopstick. She said she was going "bargain-hunting" and wanted to look "down and out." I was shocked at her appearance. Is she crazy as my husband says? -- BEMUSED
Dear Be: Let's just say she is peculiar, but then most people are a little kooky in one way or another and Thelma's kookiness is quite harmless. Dear Ann Landers: I met this boy, Brad, at the Cape in July.

Miss Burke said that the 21 state and federal hospitals in Missouri alone indicated they could use 287 registered nurses and 53 licensed practical nurses. Questionnaire results from the remaining hospitals in the state are to be tabulated this week, Miss Burke said. With these results, she hopes to determine the number of nurses needed and the areas which require them after they complete the Division of Health retraining program.

Mrs. Pfaff said, "Recruitment of nurses is a major concern on the new project." Refresher courses of six weeks will be offered to retrain nurses and others wanting to re-enter the nursing field, she said. Burge Protestant Hospital in Springfield already has begun a program with 23 nurses enrolled, and 21 nurses were expected in a program at Lutheran Hospital in St. Louis. Jewish Hospital and Barnes Hospital in St. Louis expect to begin a similar program this month.

Miss Burke pointed out that after complete lists of inactive nurses are compiled, she hopes to determine the reasons which forced them out of the health fields. HEARNES TO DELIVER MAJOR SPEECH IN K.C.
Gov. Warren Hearnes is expected to deliver a major speech Thursday, Oct. 12, when he addresses students and faculty at Rockhurst College in Kansas City. Hearnes is the featured speaker at the 50th Anniversary Convocation at Rockhurst College and will receive an honorary degree there. He also will dedicate the new Greenleaf Library on the campus.

HOUSE UNIT PROBES BUILDING SLOW-UP
The Missouri House Appropriations Committee has begun to receive the first set of reports on state building construction from architects, contractors and the Division of Planning and construction, as part of an attempt by the committee to speed up construction of state buildings. "Some of the reports show an obvious lack of initiative by someone," E. J. Cantrell, committee chairman, said. He added that this was the first time many of these architects and heads of state divisions had been questioned about the rate of their building programs. In a meeting two weeks ago with all state division heads, architects and engineers from the state, Cantrell said: "Some buildings we appropriated money for four years ago still haven't been built."

As a result a committee is demanding monthly progress reports on the projects. One cause of the delays has been the some of the institutional heads requiring revisions of plans after they have been completed, Cantrell noted. "It will be our position in the future," he said, "that following the preliminary planning and gathering of ideas from the division heads, the architects will then work only with the state Division of Planning and Construction."

The cost of construction and materials is rising at about seven per cent each year, Cantrell noted. Multiplying this by the more than 300 state building projects now under construction, any unnecessary delays cost the state a large amount of money, he said. Cantrell said that he had discussed this speed up of construction with the state architect John D. Paulus, and he said Paulus feels it will help his operation. Paulus has had a misunderstanding as to who was running the construction -- his office or the division heads. Cantrell plans to extend the appropriations committee study to the construction state of state building projects, but explained that for the most part there have not been as many problems in construction as in the initiation of planning.

If You Were The Judge Mother Has Right to Teach Birth Control

By Jack Strauss, L.L.B.
Martha's daughter was sweet sixteen, but had been kissed plenty. In fact, she attracted wolves like flowers attract bees and had mothered three children. Panicked by the innocence of her free loving daughter, Martha finally decided to instruct her profligate daughter on the techniques of how to avoid the indiscriminate visits of the stork. The result? For so instructing her daughter, Martha was arrested and charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. "By teaching her daughter all about birth control," the D. A. told the Judge, "Martha made it easier and more attractive for her daughter to engage in improper relationships."

"What did he expect me to do?" was Martha's perplexed question. "Since birth control can't be made retroactive, I had to do something. If I hadn't, she'd have ended up like the old lady who lived in a shoe."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convince Martha of leading her daughter up the thorny path? This is how the Judge ruled: Not guilty! The Judge held that a state has no right to interfere with a mother's instruction to a daughter on how to avoid conception before marriage; that such instructions are part of a mother's constitutional right of free speech. Furthermore, the Judge added, since such education is neglected in school, it's not only her right to so instruct her daughter, it becomes her obligation as a parent. (Based upon a 1965 Ohio Court of Appeals Decision)

The Prayer From the Upper Room

When they had sung a hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives. (Mark 14:26, RSV)
PRAYER: Heavenly Father, giver of every good and perfect gift, forgive us our lack of faith and praise. Put a new song in our hearts so that even in the darkest hours of life we may praise and thank Thee, in the Savior's name. Amen.

Dear Editor:
The US military intervention in Viet Nam is wrong because: 1. It violates the 1st Commandment: Thou shalt not kill; or, are we forgetting the Ten Commandments? 2. It violates the Golden Rule: Do unto others as ye would have them to unto you; or, are we forgetting the Sermon on the Mount? 3. It violates International Law: Viet Nam, North and South, is one sovereign nation and we have no right to interfere in its internal affairs; or, are we forgetting our own Civil War? 4. It violates the UN Charter: Member nations are to refrain from the use of force in international relations; or, are we forgetting our commitment to that organization? 5. It violates article 1 of the US Constitution: Wars are declared by Congress, representing all the people; or, are we forgetting that our nation is a republic? 6. It violates our Declaration of Independence: It is the right of peoples everywhere to establish whatever form of government is best conducive to their safety and happiness; or, are we forgetting our political heritage? 7. It violates the clear admonition of Geo. Washington: No foreign entanglements; or, are we forgetting the teachings of our wisest, most selfless American?

8. It violates the homely truth of Abe Lincoln: We cannot do for others what they should do for themselves; or, are we forgetting the down-to-earth, common sense by which this nation rose to greatness? 9. It violates the wisdom of Ben Franklin: Don't pay too much for the whistle. Every American personal income tax dollar now goes down the Viet Nam sewer and 100,000 of our finest youth have already been killed, wounded or maimed; or, are we forgetting our most important commitment, that to future generations of Americans? 10. It violates the dictum of Jesus: Cast out the mote in thine own eye, then thou shalt see clearly how to help thy neighbor. We have plenty to do at home; or, are we forgetting Jesus?

Think America; or, are we forgetting how to think for ourselves?

Thelma Is Kooky But Harmless

Dear Ann Landers: I have a friend who has a beautiful home, somewhat shy. We are both a fine husband and lovely children. She is bright and interesting and fun to be with, but my husband says she is a nut. Please give me your opinion. Thelma will go 15 miles out of her way to save two cents on a can of beans or six cents on a sack of flour. She clips ads, and compares prices all over town and knows the stock better than the sales people. Thelma will spend hours trying on clothes she has no intention of buying just so she will know what is available "when the time comes." Once she heard of a millinery sale and got down to the store at 7:00 a.m. to make certain she was the first one in the store when the doors opened.
Yesterday, Thelma met me for lunch wearing a dress that I wouldn't put on the end of a mopstick. She said she was going "bargain-hunting" and wanted to look "down and out." I was shocked at her appearance. Is she crazy as my husband says? --BEMUSED
Dear Be: Let's just say she is peculiar, but then most people are a little kooky in one way or another and Thelma's kookiness is quite harmless.
Dear Ann Landers: I met this boy, Brad, at the Cape in July.

He seemed very nice, though I don't know him. He is a year-old girl shouldn't take it upon herself to be a psychiatric social worker. In the meantime, write Brad and make you uncomfortable and less frequent. Please set a heated argument. When a lady is having a cup of coffee in a restaurant and she runs into a gentleman who used to work in the same office and he asks her if he can sit down and have a cup of coffee with her, should she say yes or live at Lady's Island, Beaufort, should she get up and leave? P.B.
Dear P.B.: If there is nothing more to the story than you have related, such as some old gossip about you and the gentleman, I say there is nothing wrong with having a cup of coffee with an old friend.
Want to say "no" to drinking without your buddies putting you down? Get cued in. Write for "Booze and You--For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.
Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If You Were The Judge Mother Has Right to Teach Birth Control

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Martha's daughter was sweet sixteen, but had been kissed plenty. In fact, she attracted wolves like flowers attract bees and had mothered three children.
Panicked by the innocence of her free loving daughter, Martha finally decided to instruct her profligate daughter on the techniques of how to avoid the indiscriminate visits of the stork. The result? For so instructing her daughter, Martha was arrested and charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.
By teaching her daughter all about birth control," the D. A. told the Judge, "Martha made it easier and more attractive for her daughter to engage in improper relationships."
"What did he expect me to do?" was Martha's perplexed question. "Since birth control can't be made retroactive, I had to do something. If I hadn't, she'd have ended up like the old lady who lived in a shoe."
IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you convince Martha of leading her daughter up the thorny path?
This is how the Judge ruled: Not guilty! The Judge held that a state has no right to interfere with a mother's instruction to a daughter on how to avoid conception before marriage; that such instructions are part of a mother's constitutional right of free speech. Furthermore, the Judge added, since such education is neglected in school, it's not only her right to so instruct her daughter, it becomes her obligation as a parent. (Based upon a 1965 Ohio Court of Appeals Decision)

The Prayer

From the Upper Room

When they had sung a hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives. (Mark 14:26, RSV)
PRAYER: Heavenly Father, giver of every good and perfect gift, forgive us our lack of faith and praise. Put a new song in our hearts so that even in the darkest hours of life we may praise and thank Thee. In the Savior's name. Amen.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, Oct. 10, the 283rd day of 1967. There are 82 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1913, the Gamboa Dam, last obstruction in the Panama Canal, was blown up.

On this date: In 1813, Italian opera composer Giuseppe Verdi was born.

In 1845, the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., was opened.

In 1911, Chinese revolutionaries under Dr. Sun Yat-sen overthrew the Manchu dynasty.

In 1938, Nazi Germany completed the occupation of Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland.

In 1943, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek took the oath of office as president of China.

In 1944, American forces delivered a surrender ultimatum to Aachen, Germany, during World War II.

Ten years ago — It was announced that polio in the United States had been reduced by 80 per cent over two years.

Five years ago — The United States asked for an investigation or reports that North Vietnamese had failed to meet a deadline for withdrawing troops from Laos.

One year ago — President Lyndon B. Johnson conferred with Soviet Minister Andrei Gromyko.

"Look, Mommy! An apostle!"

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, Oct. 10, the 283rd day of 1967. There are 82 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1913, the Gamboa Dam, last obstruction in the Panama Canal, was blown up.

On this date:

In 1813, Italian opera composer Giuseppe Verdi was born.

In 1845, the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., was opened.

In 1911, Chinese revolutionaries under Dr. Sun Yat-sen overthrew the Manchu dynasty.

In 1938, Nazi Germany completed the occupation of Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland.

In 1943, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek took the oath of office as president of China.

In 1944, American forces delivered a surrender ultimatum to Aachen, Germany, during World War II.

Ten years ago — It was announced that polio in the United States had been reduced by 80 per cent over two years.

Five years ago — The United States asked for an investigation or reports that North Vietnamese had failed to meet a deadline for withdrawing troops from Laos.

One year ago — President Lyndon B. Johnson conferred with Soviet Minister Andrei Gromyko.

"I don't know how you can call it an IDLE rumor—it's been MOVING like mad all over town!"

Changed Coinage

Dimes and quarters in U.S. coinage, once 90 per cent silver, now are minted entirely of copper-nickel alloy. Even the half-dollar now contains only 40 per cent silver.

Progress in Steel Strike Reported

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A high official said today behind-the-scenes maneuvering has brought progress in the violence-plagued steel haulers' rebellion.

Entering a negotiating session, William J. Hart, Pennsylvania secretary of labor and industry, declared: "When we left here last night we had nothing, absolutely nothing, to be optimistic about. Today, we'll have some good news."

He did not elaborate.

Hart and governors' representatives of six other states met for the second day in a row trying to find a solution to independent steel haulers' revolt against the Teamsters Union.

The strikers want the union to negotiate a separate contract for independent steel haulers, granting higher pay and provisions that would pay for the time truckers wait at mill loading docks.

As negotiators met, scattered violence continued.

Shots were fired into two trucking firm buildings near Middletown, Ohio. Police said no one was injured in the shooting, which apparently came from passing cars.

Labor mediators sitting on the seven-state panel were to present recommendations to Teamsters officials and the striking truckers at today's session. The panel sat for 12 hours Monday, hearing both sides.

Trial Recorded For TV Show

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Virginia Dean Thomson, 48, wept Monday when the all-male jury acquitted her of murder. As friends and her children rushed to hug her, quiet movie cameras took it all in for television replay.

Mrs. Thomson, defense lawyer Percy Foreman, prosecutors, judge, jury—all had signed releases permitting the Columbia Broadcasting System to film the trial for a show about Foreman's work.

"It's so wonderful that it is all over, but I am sorry my husband is dead," Mrs. Thomson said.

A year ago, she testified, she shot and killed lawyer-accountant Arthur Francis Thomson, 49, because of his cruelty to her.

Jury Foreman G.F. Dickinson said, "We did our best to see that the personalities of the law, yers did not influence us. Maybe we didn't succeed, but we tried."

Foreman was enthusiastic about the presence of the CBS crew in the court of Dist. Judge Wendell A. Odom.

Crash Victim Former Resident of Vanduser

POLLARD, Ark. -- Mark Edward Todd, 18, one of seven killed in a two-car collision Saturday night, near Rector, Ark., was a son of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles Todd, former pastor of the Baptist church in Vanduser, Mo.

He was born in Garden City, Mich., Oct. 3, 1949, and graduated from Scott Central high school, near Morley, Mo., this year. His parents moved to Pollard during the school year.

Survivors are three brothers, Charles D. Todd, Pollard; Jesse R. Todd, with the marines in California; and Keith Todd, Sikeston; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Lula M. Todd, Mt. Hope, Ark.; and his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Slatton, Wayne, Mich.

Services were today at 2 p.m. in the New Hope Missionary Baptist church with the Rev. O. D. Ford and the Rev. Floyd Sheeks officiating.

Burial was in the New Hope cemetery.

Double services will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p.m., in Kennett for Mr. and Mrs. C. C. "Cad"

"The Constitution guarantees every defendant a public trial, but with so many diversions today, the only way the public can participate in a trial is through media like newspapers or television," Foreman said as selection of jurors began.

He forecast that one day quiet cameras would record all trials for review by appeals courts.

CBS was filming the Houston trial for use in programs about Foreman and other defense lawyers, such as F. Lee Bailey, Louis Nizer, Edward Bennett Williams and Melvin Belli.

The network agreed not to show the film if Mrs. Thomson should be convicted, using it only after her appeals were exhausted.

Joseph Wersha, a CBS producer on hand for the trial, said the network hoped to prove that television would not interfere with fair trial.

Stress Put

On Day for

Veterans

JEFFERSON CITY -- Gene Lindsey, Missouri chairman for Veterans Day observance, and a veteran of the Pearl Harbor attack, urged Missouri veterans to take part in Veterans' Day observances.

Lindsey called upon American youth to participate and attend these services.

In letters directed to all veterans, an post commanders and school superintendents, Lindsey pointed out that physical weakness invites disease and likewise patriotic weakness invites enemy attack. He requested all Americans to demonstrate patriotism and unwavering support of servicemen.

He said: "We need more flag waving instead of flag burning."

Lindsey called for a rebirth of patriotism and told the veterans that this responsibility rest squarely on their shoulders.

"We can ill-afford to ignore this responsibility since our nation is committed in Vietnam and Americans are giving their lives in that terrible conflict," he said. "All Missourians, he added, should observe the day in its true meaning and become a part of the overall national effort to honor servicemen who fought for freedom in past conflict and those that are on the field of battle today."

Cotton Harvest

Least Since 1921

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department Monday estimated this year's government-restricted cotton crop at 8,089,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, down 96,000 bales from its forecast last month.

The indicated crop is the smallest since 1921.

The yield per acre and production, respectively, by states included: Missouri 293 pounds per acre and production 55,000 bales.

Jackson Pastor to Be Airport Chaplain

JACKSON -- The Rev. H. Thom-airport. as Foley announced to his congregation at the Presbyterian church Sunday that he has accepted in 1965 and the development of a religious program is still in an infant stage. It is an offspring of new thinking in theology that has received increasing emphasis in recent years as pastors try to take the church to the people "where they are."

Mr. Foley said he first became interested in this form of ministry as a result of studies begun a year ago last summer toward his doctorate in theology.

The Rev. Mr. Foley, who will be employed by the Protestant Council of New York City, was selected from 136 applicants.

He will be the third Protestant chaplain at the huge airport. The first, he said, went there in 1964. There also is a Catholic chaplain and a Jewish chaplain at the airport.

TV Scripts Not Always Up to Rest of Production

NEW YORK (AP) — Every body in Hollywood says it. "A show begins with the words, 'Then there was his broken marriage and a little Miss Marker kind of child—his real life daughter, Mary Frances—playing a stiff-upper-lip kid who adored her father. And George Maharis, a very intense tough guy type, cast as the catalyst, a photographer who was supposed somehow to bring the falling words—the scripts—just aren't up to the rest of the thing.'"

Monday night's "Danny Thomas Hour" on NBC, for one example, had almost all the makings in "The Demon Under the Bed." There was Bing Crosby, looking tired and worried but after that most actors would never get to know him well love to get their teeth into. He enough to care about his problem was an aging movie idol wor-lems. Maharis spent most of his rying out some hours before he time aiming a camera and learned whether some throat snapping pictures.

Stress Put On Day for Veterans

JEFFERSON CITY -- Gene Lindsey, Missouri chairman for Veterans Day observance, and a veteran of the Pearl Harbor attack, urged Missouri veterans to take part in Veteran's Day observances.

Lindsey called upon American youth to participate and attend these services.

In letters directed to all veterans, an post commanders and school superintendents, Lindsey pointed out that physical weakness invites disease and likewise patriotic weakness invites enemy attack.

He requested all Americans to demonstrate patriotism and unwavering support of servicemen.

He said: "We need more flag waving instead of flag burning."

Lindsey called for a rebirth of patriotism and told the veterans that this responsibility rest squarely on their shoulders.

"We can ill-afford to ignore this responsibility since our nation is committed in Vietnam and Americans are giving their lives in that terrible conflict," he said.

All Missourians, he added, should observe the day in its true meaning and become a part of the overall national effort to honor servicemen who fought for freedom in past conflict and those that are on the field of battle today.

Jackson Pastor to Be Airport Chaplain

JACKSON -- The Rev. H. Thom-airport. as Foley announced to his congregation at the Presbyterian Church Sunday that he has accepted a job at Kennedy International Airport in New York as still in an infant stage.

It is an offspring of new thinking in theology that has received increasing emphasis in recent years as pastors try to take the church to the people "where they are."

Mr. Foley said he first became interested in this form of ministry as a result of studies begun a year ago last summer toward his doctorate in theology.

TV Scripts Not Always Up to Rest of Production

NEW YORK (AP) — Every trouble meant he would lose his body in Hollywood says it. "A show begins with the words, with the writers." They all say it, and they tell you what fine unusual scripts they are getting. And finally, you start looking at the shows.

So many times, the acting is adequate, the sets are great, the camera work fine and the production is professional. But the words—the scripts—just aren't up to the rest of the thing.

Monday night's "Danny Thomas Hour" on NBC, for one example, had almost all the makings in "The Demon Under the Bed." There was Bing Crosby, playing an interesting character, looking tired and worried but actor that most actors would love to get their teeth into. He was an aging movie idol working out some hours before he learned whether some throat snapping pictures.

But in an hour there really was not enough time to establish a "Sunset Boulevard" mood. Crosby wandered around, looking tired and worried but never got to know him well enough to care about his problems. Maharis spent most of his time aiming a camera and learned whether some throat snapping pictures.
